Urges Canada Ask Own Constitution

Quebec's Duplessis Proposes Move At Federal-Provincial Conference

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Duplessis proposed today at the second Federal-Provincial Constitutional Conference that it ask the British Parliament for a formal declaration of Canada's right to a constitution of its own.

The Quebec government leader said he thought the work of the conference so far, of classifying constitutional powers as accorded by the British North America Act, while important, still remains a "patchwork" effort.

Bahama Police Discredit New Oakes Stories

NASSAU, Bahamas (UP)—The Bahamas Police Commissioner closed the door today on any new trial now of the Sir Harry Oakes murder case because a rash of "informants" in the United States had added nothing but stale evidence to the seven-year-old annals of the unsolved crime.

Col. G. H. Ranee announced he had received a report from his investigator, August Roberts, assistant superintendent of the Bahamas police, which indicated "no fresh evidence which would justify the taking of legal proceedings at this date."

Ranee sent Roberts to Oakland, Calif., early last week to check the story of Edward Majava, 31, who boasted to drinking companions that he knew who bludgeoned and cremated Sir Harry, a multi-millionaire Canadian mine owner, in the bedroom of his palatial Nassau estate in 1943. Sir Harry's son-in-law, Count Alfred de Marigny, was tried for the murder and acquitted.

Majava told Roberts he had learned the name of the slayer in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., from Mrs. Hildegarde Hamilton, a society artist. She denied the story, claiming Majava had given her the name of the slayer after getting it from "a blonde in Miami."

Alleged Match Trust Accused

MONTREAL (CP)—As an aftermath of an investigation conducted last year by former Commissioner F. A. McGregor of the Combines Investigation Act, five Quebec match companies were formally accused in Criminal Court today of having operated, since 1927, a price-fixing combine throughout Canada.

The accused firms are Eddy Match Company Ltd., Commonwealth Match Company Ltd., Canada Match Ltd., Federal Match Ltd. and Valcourt Company Ltd.

After the Judge Rene Therberge had fixed preliminary inquiry for Oct. 3, the defence served notice that he would make application at preliminary hearing for particulars before proceeding with the lengthy inquiry.

Victoria Homes Looted By 'Fishing Pole' Thief

City homes were looted of several women's purses and a quantity of jewelry in raids during the week-end, believed to have been the work of a window-peeping "fishing-pole" thief.

While Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Watson, Apartment 6, 1616 Belmont Avenue, were in their living-room listening to the radio Sunday night, a thief entered the bedroom through an open window and rifled the dresser drawers.

Two handbags, a gold ring with a sapphire and diamond set in platinum, worth $300; a silver ring, earrings, a $90 gold pocket watch, a woman's coat, beads and synthetic pearls were stolen.

The burglar, who entered the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. G. Wren, 920 Pandora Avenue, while they were out, stole a purse containing $75 and personal effects.

A ladder was used to reach the bedroom window. Party guests' purses stolen from the bed, which was pulled over to the window.

The alarm was sounded at 10:15 Sunday evening. Headquarters and number two station responded. Firemen found the packing-room at the rear of the china shop filled with flames and smoke.

Flames ate along the walls and ceiling of the packing-room and burned through to the second floor. The damage has not yet been estimated. The front of the shop was undamaged.

Vacant since closing time Saturday, the shop is fully covered by insurance.

3-Hour Blaze Damages Rear Of Spode Shop

City firemen battled a stubborn three-hour blaze at the Spode Shop, 1007 Government Street, Sunday night and early this morning, finally extinguishing flames at 1:02.

The alarm was sounded at 10:15 Sunday evening. Headquarters and number two station responded. Firemen found the packing-room at the rear of the china shop filled with flames and smoke.

Mrs. E. Goldsmith and her daughter, 17-year-old Doreen, were upstairs listening to the radio while the theft took place. They heard nothing downstairs.

At the home of Marion McCulloch, 2117 Belmont Avenue, a burglar piled blocks of wood outside the bedroom window so that he could reach in and take a purse containing $22 from the dressing table.

At the home of Mrs. E. S. Stevens, 949 Empress Avenue, a thief got the biggest haul of purses of the week-end. However, cash gains were slim.

A ladder was used to reach the bedroom window. Party guests' purses stolen from the bed, which was pulled over to the window.

SIX NEW AREAS IN N. ALBERTA, B.C. ON FIRE

Blanket Of Smoke Goes Over Ontario

EDMONTON (CP)—Telephone lines linking the Yukon and Alaska with Edmonton were cut during the week-end as forest fires in northern Alberta and British Columbia spread to six new areas and encircled the settlement of Fort Nelson, B.C.

The line, operated by Northwest Communications System, was cut as fire burned down poles on a two-mile stretch near Mile 255 of the Alaska Highway. Officials expected to restore service today.

Two of the new fires were eating into marketable timber stands. One old fire, in the Veterans' Land Settlement project near Wanham in northern Alberta, was brought under control after it had destroyed three farms, some livestock and crops and hundreds of trees.

The fires sent a pall of smoke drifting as far east as northern Ontario. Some filtered down to U.S. border points.

ONTARIO SPECTACLE

TORONTO (CP)—The weird, reddish smoke cloud seen Sunday thinned out over southwestern and central Ontario today and seemed headed east.

The thick pall of smoke, born in northern Alberta where forest fires are raging, today reached the weather station at Killaloe, near Pembroke in eastern Ontario. There was still a fair concentration over Toronto shortly before noon, but at western Ontario points the sun was winning through. The smoke had not reached as far east as Ottawa.

The Ontario Hydro Commission reported power consumption had increased for the second consecutive day. The sun-eclipsing cloud had caused hydro consumers to burn lights almost all of Sunday.

The smoke stretched from 7,000 up to 17,000 feet.

17-Year-Old Hunter Lost

Seventeen-year-old Allen Dufus of 1623 Belmont Road, is believed to be missing in the rugged country around 17 Mile Post at Sooke.

He went out for the opening of the deer season Saturday. Game wardens and R.C.M.P. have organized a search.

The official said Lucien Badaud, 48-year-old governor at the Richelieu County Jail, had been suspended and that the results of a full investigation into reports of "night sorties" by prisoners now was in the hands of Hon. Antoine Rivard, Quebec Solicitor-General.

Allied Forces Drive In From Four Points

TOKYO (AP)—U.S. troops bit deep into Seoul today from four directions. Officers held hopes the Korean capital would fall to Allied forces within hours.

But there were few signs that the stubborn North Korean defence was cracking up.

A U.S. flag flew from a hut on the highest point in Seoul's Tongmoksang district, planted there by a Marine company Sunday night.

Marines from this position could pour mortar fire into Seoul's army barracks and other Red strongpoints.

Marines in the Tongmoksang area searched one of Seoul's several prisons looking for American prisoners; South Korean underground agents said the Americans had been moved out of the city several days ago.

Troops of the 7th Division—an American-South Korean outfit—were thrown into the climactic struggle for the city Monday.

The division's 32nd Regiment swept across the Seoul-Suwon highway and crossed the Han River southeast of the city under cover of dawn mists.

It was the second Han crossing in two days and the third since last midweek.

Marines stormed across the river Sunday near Yongdungpo, southwest suburb of Seoul.

They linked up solidly in the west section of the city with another regiment of marines who had crossed the Han Wednesday northwest of Seoul.

One marine column was driving into Seoul from the north where Red opposition was stiffest.

Reinforcements swelled the mass of Allied troops in the Korean second-front beachhead.

Twenty-four hundred airborne troops—spearheaded by the U.S. 24th Airborne Division—landed at Kimp'o field northwest of Seoul. Within a few hours they were in action.

A fresh South Korean division was landed at the Inchon beachhead port and moved up to fight.

As the war entered its fourth month, events rolled swiftly for the Allied offensive that kicked off Sept. 15 on the old and new fronts.

Allied forces struck mightily out of the old southeast beachhead for big, new gains.

Gain 55 Miles In 3 Days

The U.S. 1st Cavalry rolled 55 miles in three days—from Tabu to Poun, 18 miles northeast of Taegon.

American and South Korean forces fought into Chnju, Hyopchon, Kumchon, Hamchang, Uijong.

The two fronts were only 60 miles apart—from Poun to Osan—30 miles south of Seoul. Patrols of the U.S. 7th Division stabbed into Osan Sunday.

The North Koreans fought desperately to hold open an escape route to the north. The battle centered around Kumchon.

Other crumbling Red divisions were in danger of being sealed in the south when the two Allied beachheads converge.

The crossing of the Han by U.S. 7th Division troops was made under the guns of South Mountain, 700-foot fortified height within Seoul's south limits.

From it, Red guns command a wide stretch of the Han.

U.S. artillery hurled barrages of shells at the peak for a half hour before the crossing. Then amphibious tractors churned across the Han, upstream from three ruined bridges.

BUYERS SNAP RUBBER STOCKS

LONDON (Reuters)—Speculators and investors scrambled to buy eastern rubber shares at sharply higher prices in a wild boom on the London Stock Exchange today. The boom was touched off by the news this week's Commonwealth conference would discuss a great development scheme for Southeast Asia, including the possibility of United States aid.

Survivors Of Bomber Crash Await Rescue

HALIFAX (CP)—Rescue of 16 persons stranded in the Labrador wilds since Thursday, when a U.S. B-50 bomber crashed, depended today on the whim of the weather.

A U.S. Air Force helicopter at Goose Bay prepared to take off to pick up the missing plane's 12 crew members and four passengers.

Search for the missing aircraft, carried out by scores of planes of the U.S. and Canadian air forces, ended Sunday when an R.C.A.F. Lancaster out of Greenwood, N.S., located the 16 about 95 miles southwest of Goose Bay. The only word received by search and rescue headquarters here said all 16 men were alive.

Piloted by F.O. J. M. Wallace of Halifax, the Lancaster was 30 minutes out of Goose Bay when a smoke signal attracted it to the area where the survivors huddled around a crudely-constructed shelter.

No sign of the bomber was found and details of how the crew members escaped were not available at Goose Bay. No medical supplies were requested.

At Conference Ontario Proposes Attorneys-General Form Committee

QUEBEC (CP)—The 11 governments of Canada plumped swiftly today into the complex and ticklish task of setting this country's constitution house in order.

Varying expressions of opinion emerged as Prime Minister St. Laurent and the 10 provincial Premiers met to seek a method of bringing to Canada the power to amend the Canadian constitution.

The 70 delegates heard these views expressed by the federal government and Ontario and Quebec:

1. Premier Duplessis of Quebec called for a formal declaration by the British Parliament that this country has a right to a constitutional set-up of its own.

2. Prime Minister St. Laurent agreed with the suggestion that the Canadian governments first must tell Westminster to whom it is to abdicate the constitution-amending power.

2. A proposal by Premier Frost of Ontario that the conference concern itself solely with the mechanics of amending the constitution and that it leave problems of interpretation to a later day.

COMMITTEE PLAN

Mr. Frost, placing the first concrete proposal before his fellow premiers and the federal authority, suggested the conference turn over to a sub-committee of attorneys-general the task of working out a method of amending the constitution.

He appealed to the conference not to allow itself to become bogged down in the legal mire of interpretation of constitutional authority, nor to attempt immediately to define the shadowy lines dividing federal and provincial jurisdiction in the constitution.

Those problems, he suggested, could be dealt with later on, as they periodically arose in the day-to-day relationships between the

DUCE'S BARBER CHAIR SOLD

ROME (UP)—Benito Mussolini's barber chair, ping-pong racquets and waterproof boots were up for sale at a government auction today. Other items belonging to the dead Italian dictator included a copy of Hitler's "Mein Kampf," brand new and apparently never read. ### Cayuga's Crew Gives Food For Korean Relief

WITH THE CANADIAN DESTROYERS OFF KOREA (delayed) (CP)—The Canadian destroyer Cayuga took on the role of relief ship recently, landing supplies of desperately-needed food at a number of South Korean Island communities cut off from supply centres on the mainland by Communist troops.

The Cayuga's crew volunteered to cut down their own rations so that more food could be landed.

While on patrol in the Inchon area, the Cayuga discovered several villages whose food stocks were dangerously low. The Canadian ship immediately landed all her spare food but her men considered she could do more. A special meeting of the Cayuga's welfare committee voted unanimously to cut their own rations to augment supplies put ashore.

In addition, Capt. J. V. Brock, commanding officer of Cayuga and commander of a United Nations task group which included the other two Canadian destroyers in Korean waters—Athabaskan and Sioux—established areas off the coast in which he guaranteed the safety of South Korean fishermen. The fishermen had not ventured out to the fishing grounds for weeks for fear of attack by North Korean forces.

The Cayuga's doctor, Lt. Cmdr. J. C. Gray of Halifax and Victoria, provided medical care for the sick of one of the villages.

POLICE-BOOKIE SCANDAL STIRS NEW YORKERS

Artie Karp Names Officers In Payoff

NEW YORK (AP)—Rumors raced through New York city's police and political ranks today, spurred by a sensational probe of police-bookmaker graft which has yet to reach its climax.

Most widespread of the reports was that Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien would resign. His ouster has been demanded in the wake of evidence that a huge gambling ring was feeding $1,000,000 a year in protection money to city police.

The Brooklyn Eagle said Acting Mayor Vincent Impellitteri had dismissed O'Brien and that an unnamed member of the force would take O'Brien's place tonight.

The newspaper said its information had come from "an unimpeachable source."

However, after the newspaper was on the street, Impellitteri denied O'Brien had been fired.

Another report was that boss bookmaker Harry Gross once more has changed his mind and now was ready to reveal the names of policemen to whom his $20,000,000 bookie syndicate dished out graft.

Held on $250,000 bail, Gross previously had admitted big payoffs to cops although he refused to name names.

But Gross' reputed payoff man, Artie Karp, surrendered to the King's County district attorney's office and promptly began to tell all.

Husted before a racketeering grand jury, the flashily-attired Karp listed the names of police to whom he allegedly handed out a share of the $1,000,000 in protection pay.

Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz said Karp's revelations had "broken the case wide open."

Official sources said Saturday night that six policemen named by Karp had been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury at once. They also said a vice-squad supervisor had been switched to desk duty by O'Brien.

The gambling investigation exploded into a full-scale scandal last week after a series of raids on bookie layouts.

To Fight Soon

CANBERRA (UP)—Australian ground forces will go into action in Korea "almost immediately," authoritative sources said today. Australian planes and warships already are taking part in the United Nations offensive.

It was believed that at least some of the Australian ground troops would be drawn from the occupation force in Japan. They may join the British 27th Brigade, which is fighting west of the Nakdong River.

Hope For Seoul Fall In Matter Of Hours

WASHINGTON—Gen. MacArthur reported today that advance elements of the 7th U.S. Division and the 1st Cavalry Division were only 38 miles apart in their drive to link up in the Inchon-Seoul area.

Parking Inadequate, Says City Visitor

Parking facilities in downtown Victoria are "obviously inadequate," in the opinion of Charles A. Parker, Ottawa alderman who spent the week-end in Victoria. He remarked that municipal parking areas might improve the situation, and also that traffic lights could be increased in the business section. In Victoria for the first time, Mr. Parker arrived with his wife after stops made at Calgary, Jasper and Banff, where he was a delegate to Canadian Tourist Association meetings.

CANBERRA (Reuter) — Early revaluation of the Australian pound to something below parity with sterling is being discussed again by federal ministers as an alternative to a proposed wool export tax, usually well-informed quarters said here today. The Australian pound now is valued at about $2.45 in Canadian funds, compared with the British pound at about $3.10.

Wet, Tired, Young Hunter Found As Search Opens

Wet and tired, 19-year-old hunter Alan Duffus, 1623 Belmont Road, came out of the woods at Sooke around 11 this morning to cancel a search scheme being tied up to hunt for him. South Vancouver Island Rangers emergency search service was prepared to launch one of its search programs when the R.C.M.P. reported the young hunter had come out under his own power.

Duffus, who comes from a small town near Winnipeg and is employed by the Capital Iron Works, became separated from his hunting companions Sunday afternoon.

NIGHT IN RAIN
After spending the night in the rain-drenched mountainous hinterland this side of the 17-Mile Post, Duffus managed to find his way back to the road.

Seventeen-year-old Ronald Edwards, 827 Craigflower Road, went out with Duffus on the latter's motorcycle. Two others, also employed by the Capital Works, George Wiebe and Fred LaCorre, went out in a car and joined them for the bird, deer hunt.

Ronald Edwards and his father, Stan, went out to Sooke last night, found the motorcycle where it had been left and alerted the R.C.M.P. Game Warden Bob Sinclair called the Rangers to prepare for action.

Another Aide Of Sheltons' Gang Murdered

HERRIN, Ill. (AP) — Roy Armes, 32, brother of a slain member of the notorious Shelton gang, was shot to death from ambush Sunday.

Bullets from a high-powered rifle and buckshot from a shotgun hit Armes after he and a companion had left a tavern and climbed into their automobile. The slaying was similar to the shootings of the Shelton brothers—Carl, Bernie and Roy—in the last three years.

Roy Armes was a brother of Monroe (Blackie) Armes, killed in 1944 by bullets in a tavern duel south of Herrin. Blackie was a Shelton gangster. His slayer, Thomas Castle, owner of the tavern, also was killed.

By coincidence, the same man, James Scott, 37, was with each of the Armes brothers when they died. Scott escaped the bullets in 1944 as he did today.

A floodlight from the tavern silhouetted the Armes car and made Roy an easy target. The two killers had crouched behind a picket fence.

The victim had in one of his pockets a receipt for a $500 fine levied last month in Benton for molesting two women in a West Springfield theatre.

100 Fires In B.C., Northern Alberta

Telegraph Link With Yukon, Alaska, Restored After Brief Week-end Break

EDMONTON (CP)—Telegraph communication between Edmonton, the Yukon and Alaska—severed by fire during the week-end—was restored today as a temporary line was strung along a scorched section of the Alaska Highway 50 miles south of Fort Nelson, B.C.

The fire was one of about 100 scattered in northern Alberta and British Columbia which were sending a dense pall of smoke as far as the north-eastern United States.

Most of the fires were in northern Alberta, where six new outbreaks were reported during the week-end. Thirty-six major fires were being fought by fire-fighters from the Alberta forestry branch.

Smoke Blanket Over Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—The weird, reddish smoke cloud seen Sunday thinned out over southwestern and central Ontario today and seemed headed east.

The thick pall of smoke, born in northern Alberta where forest fires are raging, today reached the weather station at Killarney, near Pembroke in eastern Ontario. There was still a fair concentration over Toronto shortly before noon, but at western Ontario points the sun was winning through. The smoke had not reached as far east as Ottawa.

The Ontario Hydro Commission reported power consumption had increased for the second consecutive day. The sun-eclipsing cloud had caused hydro consumers to burn lights almost all of Sunday. The smoke stretched from 7,000 up to 17,000 feet.

Given Suspension

QUEBEC (CP)—Suspension of the Sorel, Que. jail governor was revealed today by a high provincial government official following reports that prisoners were able to escape at night and return in the morning.

The official said Lucien Bader, 48-year-old governor at the Richelieu County Jail, had been suspended and that the results of a full investigation into reports of "night sorties" by prisoners now was in the hands of Hon. Antoine Rivard, Quebec Solicitor-General.

3-Hour Blaze Damages Rear Of Spode Shop

City firemen battled a stubborn three-hour blaze at the Spode Shop, 1007 Government Street, Sunday night and early this morning, finally extinguishing flames at 1.02.

The alarm was punched at 10.15 Sunday evening. Headquarters and number two station responded. Firemen found the packing-room at the rear of the china shop filled with flames and smoke.

Flames ate along the walls and ceiling of the packing-room and burned through to the second floor. The damage has not yet been estimated. The front of the shop was undamaged.

Vacant since closing time Saturday, the shop is fully covered by insurance.

ROUNDABOUT ACCIDENT

A car driven by Gerald Ian Kirker, 931 Dunsmuir Road, suffered $75 damage early Sunday morning when it collided with the cement curbing of Fountain Circle, city police reported.

Eight fires burning in a semi-circle around another repeater station 25 miles west of High Prairie in northern Alberta were causing concern. In the Sturgeon Lake area one fire raced 15 miles in one day, the telegraph officials said.

In Edmonton, a blanket of smoke 4,000 feet thick that moved over the city late Sunday continued to dim the sun.

9 Glass Companies Plead Guilty To Price Fixing

TORONTO (CP)—Nine glass companies accused of operating a price-fixing combine today pleaded guilty and indicated they will ask leniency on grounds that their prices and profits have always been fair.

Hearing of the charge started today in the Assize Court before Mr. Justice W. R. Trevelyan of the Ontario Supreme Court.

The companies, all in Ontario and Quebec, were named in a report handed to the federal government last winter by Fred A. McGregor, at that time combines investigator. He said the companies operated a price-fixing and restraint-of-trade combine for 20 years.

Harold Walker, representing

Pinkington Brothers (Canada) Ltd., one of the firms accused, started the defence presentation.

"On reviewing the evidence when it was made available, we found that there was no doubt that our clients had agreed upon association prices for glass in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec," he said. "We are satisfied that the associated glass jobbers have not made large profits and have not exploited the public."

The trial has been delayed several times since Justice Minister Garson last Feb. 7 announced his decision to prosecute the firms. Pinkington Brothers were acquitted of a separate charge by a grand jury last spring.

U.S. Narcotics Official Shot Dead During Raid

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—The chief of the U.S. Narcotics Bureau for the Minneapolis area was shot dead and one of his agents severely wounded in a raid Sunday on an opium den two blocks from St. Paul police headquarters.

Four men were taken into custody. One of them was wounded critically.

Dead was A. M. Bangs, 50. Shot under the heart was agent Joseph Winberg, 27. Also wounded was John Wong, 49, who lives in the apartment hotel, scene of the raid.

Police and federal agents gave this story of the raid, which took place in the Glendale apartment hotel.

Bangs, Winberg and Virgil Magnuson, another agent, entered a room on the third floor and found four men smoking opium.

While Magnuson remained with three of the men, Bangs and Winberg accompanied Wong to a second-floor room to search for further evidence.

Wong broke away, obtained a gun, and a shooting fray developed.

Booked on suspicion of murder and as material witnesses, the three other men gave their names as Jimmy Wong, 43; Leo Wong, 53, and Yee Wong, 47. They said they were not related.

Ready For The Final Step

FEW COUNTRIES THAT HAVE reached the stature of Canada in domestic and world affairs could be found staging a conference such as engages the attention of federal and provincial delegates in Quebec City today. For their purpose is to discuss the methods by which Canada may authorize changes in her constitution when desired, without recourse to the Parliament at Westminster. It is somewhat of an anomaly that a nation which has achieved full independence in political, social and economic matters should still require outside sanction for such an important procedure as constitutional amendment; but the situation arises from the fact that this Dominion has no constitution in the sense that France or the United States enjoys one. Our basic political background derives from the British North America Act of 1867, which, being an enactment of the British Parliament, can only be changed by that body.

No repetition is required, of course, of the fact that British assent to such changes as Canada requested would be forthcoming automatically, and immediately. There is no question of such permission being withheld. But the situation remains, that the machinery for constitutional amendment does not exist in this country, and that we are the only Dominion in which this condition holds. It is to provide such machinery, on a mutually-satisfactory basis, that the Quebec conference held its first session today. The delegates will take up their consideration of the various factors where they left off last January, at which time British Columbia—represented by Premier Byron Johnson—took a leading part.

Foreigners viewing this meeting could be forgiven if they misinterpreted the purpose and the atmosphere of the deliberations. Here is no strident demand for constitutional autonomy, no desperate bid for political emancipation. It is instead a calm approach to a problem that is technical rather than fundamental—the arranging on our own terms of a method of recognizing formally what already exists in fact. It is not expected that the current meetings will fully solve the problem, but it is hoped that the provinces will be able shortly to agree on the best method to be pursued.

Success In An Ideal

MORE THAN DR. RALPH BUNCHE, former United Nations mediator in Palestine, and his people have been honored by his selection as Nobel Peace Prize winner. The peaceful aims of the western democracies, in which he is thoroughly grounded, have received an accolade through the award.

Dr. Bunche worked in Palestine as the servant of the United Nations. His was an international authority. But his method of carrying out his duties fell so squarely within the ideals of democracy as we know it, that he could not have portrayed the position of the West better had he been appointed solely by those forces which cherish freedom.

It was not Dr. Bunche's duty to speak in terms of peace and to leave his efforts anchored to no firmer base than the bright clouds of rhetoric. It was his job to work actively for peace—the cessation of a shooting conflict.

More Moscow Poppycock

SOVIET PROPAGANDA HAS NEVER been noted for its originality. For years it has followed the pattern of "Hitler's big lie." Repeat the lie often enough and everybody eventually will accept it as truth. But when a correspondent of Pravda—one of the official mouthpieces of the Moscow Politburo—reports from Korea that "Canadian fliers, drunk with gin, are killing the wounded being evacuated" from Seoul, the ultimate in propagandist idiocy would seem to have been reached.

Since no Canadian airmen are on combat duty in Korea, it was a simple matter for an official of the Royal Canadian Air Force to explode this latest Kremlin-inspired ditty—incidentally blowing sky-high another Moscow report that the United Nations' drive on Seoul proves the "weakness rather than the strength of United States imperialism."

The truth is, that, in the first place, no gin-drunk Canadian airmen were there; and, in the second place, Moscow obviously has learned that the North Korean troops Russia has backed and armed are finding it more than a little difficult to hang on to their captured South Korean capital. So much for the piffle emanating from Stalin's Goebbelsian publicity factory!

The Tight-Rope Walker

ONLY A MONTH OR SO AGO THE people of this province were being told by the Van-uver Sun's tight-rope-walking columnist Elmore Philpott that British Columbia's lumber market in the United Kingdom figuratively had "gone to pot."

It was easy for Philpott to suggest that Canada should take sterling instead of dollars. It was especially easy, of course, because, in his reckless way, the idea of facing basic economic facts as they relate to world trade and the discrepancies in exchange would have required a certain amount of research and mental effort. Perhaps he will have noted, however, that lumber operators in British Columbia are slated to receive an order for about $20,000,000. This is quite a sum in any economic language.

Korean Successes Cheer Allies But Some Problems Still Remain

By BRUCE BLOSSAT, from New York

EVERYONE hopes the field commanders know what they're talking about when they say the war is over in Korea. The valiant American retreat down the peninsula and the game stand U.N.

soldiers have been making for weeks in their narrow bridge-head and the amphibious assaults at Inchon and other places stand out as bright chapters in military history.

The generals tell us in effect that we're starting a fresh page in a new chapter. But no one should imagine that it will make breezy, light-hearted reading.

No matter how confident our leaders may be of final victory, too-ready optimism over the quick collapse of the North Korean enemy seems ill-advised. First of all, we don't know yet that the Russians who are directing the North Koreans will not continue to pour ample stocks of new and powerful weapons into the battle. If the Russians decide to do that, some of the equipment will get through despite the pounding that Allied fliers are giving North Korean transport.

We do know that the North Koreans have far from exhausted their available military manpower, even without drawing upon any Chinese Communist units. Nor can any American leader be confident that the Chinese Reds would not throw some of their battle-toughened divisions into the fray to prolong the conflict and keep the North Koreans from being rolled up beyond the 38th Parallel.

Apparently U.N. officials think this isn't going to happen. But they don't really know. And can't know until the American offensive develops and the Russians and Chinese are put to that test.

CRITICAL DECISIONS
In other words, the most critical decisions—the ones that must be made—those which most seriously affect the duration of the war—have either not yet been made or have not become evident. So it is foolish for us to talk glibly about crushing the opposition swiftly.

We do enjoy one advantage that might make for a fairly speedy Korean defeat. Questioning of prisoners discloses that North Korean morale doesn't stand up well under reverses.

But until such a collapse in morale actually occurs, it's risky to count upon it. Right now it has to be classed as wishful thinking. We've got to assume, for our own safety, that the enemy will be as tough in defeat as he was in victory. We've got to expect the worst. If it doesn't happen that'll be our good luck.

Deterrent Power

By WALTER LIPPMANN, from Washington

IT IS said by those who usually have such things straight from the horse's mouth that the British military experts have advised the British government that a European force—the kind of force Mr.

Acheson has been talking about—could not be set up within five years. This is a longer time than most of our experts think necessary, provided, of course, the business is taken in hand promptly and with a sense of urgency. But at best the European force, which might be adequate to deal with the Russian divisions now inside Europe, cannot exist for several years.

What is it, then, that defends this undefended continent now, and will defend it until it has the force to defend itself? What is it that keeps the Red Army from marching across Europe to the Atlantic, and across the Middle East to the Persian Gulf and Mediterranean?

IN GENERAL terms the answer, of course, is obvious. It is the deterrent power of the United States which has thus far contained the military power of the U.S.S.R. within the limits agreed to at Yalta. All over the world there are places which are indefensible, and yet they have not been taken—for example West Berlin, Vienna, Iran. They have been protected only by the deterrent power of America.

Moreover, both of the great undertakings in which the democracies are engaged would be quite impossible but for this deterrent power. The amphibious operation in Korea could not even have been contemplated at this time except on the hypothesis that the Soviet air force is deterred from intervening. The whole project of European rearmament assumes that the Russians can be deterred from seizing the new arms and from breaking up the new formations before the European force is ready to fight.

NOW, since so much, indeed virtually everything we are doing, is dependent on this deterrent power, the more we understand it the more likely we are not to squander it but to preserve it.

There are two theories, now current, which are exerting great influence on responsible men. One is that the U.S.S.R. will no longer be deterred from moving against Europe when it has a stockpile of atomic bombs. In several variations this is the theory held by the advocates of a European Army. In essence they hold that now the American atomic bomb neutralizes the Red Army. They argue that when there is a Russian atomic stockpile, there must be a European Army to neutralize the Russian Army.

THE OTHER theory is that the U.S.S.R. will at some time after 1952-3 have atomic bombs and the means of delivering them to knock out the United States by a gigantic Pearl Harbor. All the talk about preventive war stems from this theory.

There is a third theory, which has not had much attention though it is in fact the view of some men who have gone pretty deeply into this whole business. This theory holds that the key to the Soviet strategy is the ability of the air defenses of the Soviet Union to withstand American bombing. Another way of putting this is to say that the key to Soviet strategy is the power of Soviet air defenses to neutralize American deterrent power.

I BELIEVE that this is most probably the correct theory. It rests on the simple notion that the Soviet Union will be deterred from overt aggression (that is to say aggression by Soviet forces) as long as the defenses of Russia are not able to hold off the counter-attack. It rests on the idea that the men in the Kremlin do not regard Russia as expendable in the cause of Communism and that the security of Russia and of the regime are their first consideration.

If this theory is correct, then the highest priority must continue to be given to keeping the development of American strategic strength power superior to the development of Soviet defenses.

Upon that superiority depends the defence of all the countries that have no armies and that can never have armies capable of giving battle to the Red Army. Upon that superiority depends the defence of the United States, which can never be sealed up against all conceivable forms of attack but which is nevertheless defended as long as it has the power to strike back.

THE deterrent power of the United States is a mighty thing. It has contained the mightiest army on earth from overrunning the defenceless and prostrate Eurasian continent. The prevention of a total and universal war depends on keeping this deterrent power and on perfecting it.

The Soviets know what they are doing when they direct the main force of their world propaganda, as shown by the Stockholm petition, against the deterrent power of the United States.

CANDY TAX

The Dominion government lacks the courage to admit that the imposition of the "Candy Tax" in their baby budget was a mistake.

Even socialistic Britain with all its mighty taxes on everything from razor blades to steamships has left the candy bar alone.

This new tax is both cruel and heavy and does hit the youngsters very hard. We all know that children do not generally buy fancy and expensive boxes of chocolates, and the tax on such luxuries could quite fairly remain. But the sooner this sticky tax is removed from the more humble and wholesome candy bars, the sooner will right be done.

Let it not be said that Canada has to tax her kids to help pay for her defence.

DO THEY NEED HELP?

In connection with the Anscomb controversy I wrote you some time ago, that from my deductions, the whole trouble originated in the Okanagan District, and that it was quite possible that the Liberal Party was behind the whole affair, in order to get rid of a good debater, especially in connection with the financial matters concerning the government's expenditure.

From your paper, under date Sept. 21, it would appear that my deductions in this regard were not far off the mark.

Former B.C. Attorney-General Harry Pooley apparently has come to the same conclusion relative to the Liberal Association lending a helping hand to cause trouble within the ranks of the Conservative group, in order to strengthen their hand at the next general election.

The matter of Mr. Anscomb being connected with the liquor trade is just a red herring; other ministers have been in the same position.

I do not play politics, so am not that interested who gets in the next election, as the working people have to foot the bill anyway.

BOOKS FOR SAILORS

Naval Veterans' Branch, No. 42, has just been informed by the sports officer of H.M.C.S. Naden that a petty officer has just returned to the port from the destroyers serving in Korea and he has reported the men urgently need more reading material and playing cards.

This branch and our ladies' auxiliary, with the help of generous donations by the public, provided a good supply of pocket novels, playing cards and games for the men when the ships left here on July 5. However, due to the nature of their duties the men have not had much shore leave and consequently the books and cards have been in almost constant use since that date. The pocket edition novels are not the type to stand heavy use but they are the most convenient type as the men can slip them in their pocket and read them in their leisure moments.

A deck of playing cards eventually swells to the size of two or three decks from the use they get. We are now advised that the local authorities would be pleased if we could obtain more pocket edition books on all subjects and playing cards. They will arrange for them to be sent to the ship if we will gather and properly pack them.

Therefore the Naval Veterans Branch, No. 42, Canadian Legion and the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Branch are putting on another drive immediately to raise more of the required books and cards.

The books may be left at the office of the branch at 1417 Broad Street, or if any person has more than they wish to carry we will be pleased to pick them up if they will just phone G 6714 or E 8089.

You Can't Get Sick In Poland

From The London Economist

REVEALING evidence about the effect on workers of the Stakhanovite, or shock-worker, system has been inadvertently provided by the Polish government's drastic measures and propaganda against absenteeism.

A bill has been introduced under which any worker who stays away from work for more than four days a year without proper justification is liable to varying degrees of punishment, including reductions of wages between 10 and 25 per cent. At the same time, owing to the alarming proportion of workers going on sick leave, special committees with arbitrary powers are visiting the surges of medical officers in the industrial areas of Poland to ascertain whether patients have good reason to apply for sick leave and the doctors to grant it.

PATIENTS SKIP

Writing on the situation in the official Trybuna Ludu of April 12, Dr. I. T. Wolanski states that it has been noticed that many of the doctors' waiting rooms, in Silesia particularly, are suddenly deserted by their patients on the appearance of the official investigators. He reveals also that 11 million persons entitled to free health benefits (enjoyed only by workers and state officials) paid 70 million visits to doctors in 1947, 20 million of which involved hospital and surgical treatment.

In Silesia, it is disclosed, the average worker is absenting himself on grounds of sickness for more than 12 days a year.

This enormous rise in absenteeism among Polish industrial workers—whether due to genuine illness or not—coincides with the government's intensive drive to enforce the Stakhanovite and other pressure systems for increased output. Throughout similar production drives in the Soviet Union, the authorities have always carefully avoided publishing any data which might indicate resistance by the workers or an adverse effect on their health.

It is clear, therefore, that only grim necessity has compelled the Beirut regime to resort to publicity in order to appeal to workers' consciences. The Polish Minister of Light Industries, Mr. Stawinski, has explained that the state is suffering losses amounting to "billions of zlotys each year."

LIGHT-HEARTED VIEW

Dr. Wolanski virtually accuses doctors of aiding and abetting absenteeism through what he calls "their destructive liberalism" and of taking a "light-hearted view of the question of labor discipline," which is "disorganizing production." He points out that absenteeism increases notably in the spring when workers are anxious to put in time digging their allotments. The new bill means that the Polish worker will have to submit to even greater regimentation than before.

HOPE OF RESOLVING the dangerous India-Pakistan differences has received a fillip from an indirect but dramatic extension of the olive branch by Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Nehru's gesture came in a rebuke to extremist political followers at the annual conference of his All-India Congress Party. These extremists had demanded retaliatory action against Hindu India's Moslem minority because of alleged mistreatment of 12,000,000 Hindus in Moslem-dominated Pakistan. Referring to such retaliation, Nehru said:

"Even if some people want it, can it be accepted in the name of democracy? If that is called democracy then I say, to hell with such democracy. Democratic principles are not a matter of convenience to be treated as suits the whims of anybody."

Nehru proclaimed that he refused to bow to "the wishes of the mob." He added that if the congress wanted him as premier, it would have to follow his lead "unequivocally" otherwise he would go out and fight independently for his ideals.

ENDORSEMENT

Congress gave him an overwhelming vote of endorsement.

The significance of this development over Hindu-Moslem relations is that the age-old differences between the two religions enter strongly into the bitterness between India and Pakistan. Indeed, when the Indian subcontinent was divided to create the new states of India and Pakistan, the division was along those religious lines. The Hindu-populated areas went to India, and the Moslem zones to Pakistan.

In the old days before the division there were continual communal disturbances based on the religious hatreds. Destruction of property and bloodshed was frequent.

When Pakistan and India were created, many Hindus were left in Moslem Pakistan, and a lot of Moslems remained in Hindu territory. There have been cases of mistreatment of these minorities, and these have increased the dangers of strife between the two countries.

KASHMIR PROBLEM

To these difficulties there was added the dispute over possession of the rich princely state of Kashmir. The ruling prince was a Hindu and when it became clear that Kashmir would be absorbed by either India or Pakistan, he elected to join Hindu India. But his subjects were Moslems, and they wanted to join Pakistan.

This quarrel over Kashmir has several times come close to war during the three years it has been going on. A United Nations mediator now is trying to straighten the matter out, and he has recommended partition as the best way to settle it.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"SO" said the Elevator Man, "they're 'taking the pledge' in the Welsh coal fields. It's against lost week-ends, but not in the alcoholic sense. A news item says the boys are being urged to swear off dodging Saturday shifts, and two 'missionaries' in each mine will try to get converts. Not a bad idea, that. I guess it takes something like a pledge to keep a fella going down the mine day after day. You could reach a point where you'd rather be up where it's sunny than down where there's money. A fella doesn't want to make his presence below ground seem too permanent—that'll come later. Lower main!"

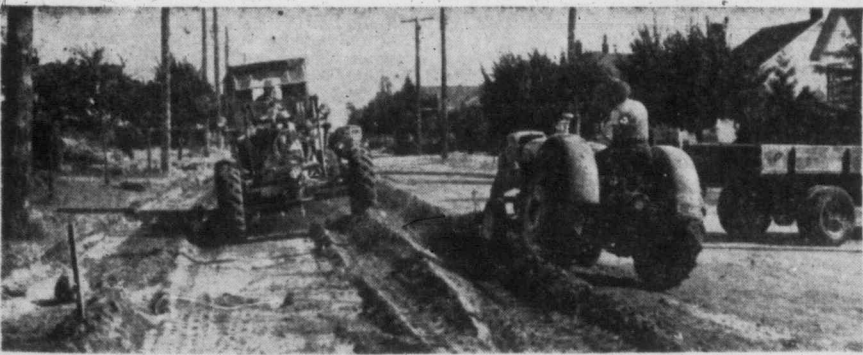

"Work," said the Elevator Man, "is something that everybody wants to have but nobody wants to do. With some people it's too valuable to waste, and they reserve it for special occasions. Others just dislike it on principle, and avoid it like they would dodge an unpleasant neighbor they see coming down the street. Only the very clever and the very stupid can get by without it. Everybody in between has to do the best he can. The lucky ones learn to love it. The rest make a compromise between happiness and hunger. Going up!"

"They say," said the Elevator Man, "it's the attitude that counts. You remember the old story of the three men working together on a construction job. A passerby asked the first one what he was doing. 'Breaking rock,' was the answer. He asked the next one. 'Making a road,' he was told. But when the third man was asked the same question he looked up and said, 'I'm building the King's Highway.' Well, a little dramatic, but you get the point. It's a tough idea to put across these days, though. The fella who makes bolts in a factory finds it hard to pretend he's helping to build bridges and skyscrapers. The guy who spends all day punching holes in sheets of metal is a long way from the finished products of a cap or a battleship. He'd need good binoculars to bring the view into focus. But a good bankroll will do it almost as well."

Dalhousie Street Prepared For Pavement

More than block of Dalhousie Street will be paved shortly, following work now being done to make road surface ready for black-top.

$90,000 Road Work Program In Oak Bay Changing Much Of Municipality's Face

Ninety thousand dollar road maintenance and construction program in Oak Bay is making excellent progress, according to A. S. G. Musgrave, municipal engineer, and is changing the face of Oak Bay considerably in many areas.

Greatest activity at present is on Dalhousie Street, where municipal employees are readying the street for paving between Cadboro Bay Road and a portion of the block between Musgrave Street and Beach Drive. Curbs are already laid.

Excess dirt from Dalhousie is being used for side fill outside the curbs on Linkleas Avenue, where the permanent road surface is slightly above the boulevard.

All flood damage caused in the spring on Lansdowne Road, Cadboro Bay Road, and Beach Drive has now been repaired, Mr. Musgrave said.

"We used crushed rock in our repairs this year," Mr. Musgrave said. "It is more expensive than gravel but is more permanent."

A huge system of storm water drains in the old exhibition grounds is nearly completed, and will make the property fit for building by next year. It will also absorb water from the slope toward Lansdowne Road and beyond.

The new area in the vicinity of Middowne and Westdowne roads is one of the finest in the municipality.

"We are able to start right from the beginning here," Mr. Musgrave said. "Working with the Hudson's Bay Company, original owners of the property, we laid it out with curved streets and utility poles down the centre of the blocks where they can't be seen from the street. It has given every house a view."

A good portion of Oak Bay is now completely built up, Mr. Musgrave said, and nearly all apartment sites are in use. New expansion will take place on the exhibition grounds and in the large area north of Lansdowne.

A summary of the work planned for this year, most of which has been done, is as follows: new paving, 14,000 square yards; new curbs, 11,500 feet; new sewers, 3,000 feet; new water mains, 1,200 feet; storm water drains, 6,000 feet; sidewalks, 10,000 feet.

for filling-in, and the tree heathers to use for breaking "flatness," and for backgrounds and hedges.

NEED LITTLE ATTENTION

As to the amount of attention necessary, the only requirements are an even moisture at the roots, removing faded flowers—easily done with hedge shears—and, as the plants become older, taking out dead wood.

By careful choice of varieties, it is possible to have some bloom at all seasons, and you don't have to invest a lot of money because the plants are quite reasonable, and can be selected at local nurseries.

It is a little hard to realize that the arbutus, blueberry, salal and rhododendron all belong to the same family as the heathers, despite their difference in appearance and habit of growth.

Actually the family Ericaceae (e-re-kay'-see-ee) comprises some 67 genera and more than 1,400 species, most of which prefer acid soil conditions, although a few—very few—will tolerate a certain amount of lime.

As to varieties and how to plant them—we'll leave that until tomorrow.

Broadened Labor Legislation Urged

C.C.L. Head Also Claims Conciliation Procedure Needs Improvement

WINNIPEG (CP)—Broadening of the field of federal labor laws and improvement in conciliation board procedure in industrial disputes were called for today by A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

In his opening address of the C.C.L.'s annual convention here, Mr. Mosher struck out at some unnamed conciliation boards for the tone of their reports.

(The C.C.L. head also is president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, largest union engaged in the recent rail strike. He has been sharply critical of the majority findings of two boards that sat on the rail dispute.)

"Reports issued by certain conciliation boards in recent months in industrial disputes which are of vital importance to the public have shown an almost reckless disregard for factual accuracy, and have had consequences which have defeated the very purpose for which conciliation boards are established."

"Some recent board reports have actually resulted in a worsening of labor-management relations. In some cases, decisions are made on considerations of expediency rather than of sound principles."

Mr. Mosher said the answer might lie partly in developing panels of trained persons, representing the views of labor, management and the general public, to serve on boards.

Dealing with the extension of federal labor laws, he said "labor legislation should be on a national rather than on a provincial basis."

"There is," he said, "a marked disingenuousness by the responsible authorities to attempt to introduce federal legislation or to take the necessary steps to obtain power to do so."

The result was "senseless lack of uniformity" in various provinces, which bewildered workers and unions.

(Federal industrial relations legislation now covers a number of interprovincial industries such as railways, communications, aviation and shipping.)

A "constant state of public emergency" now existed and a national labor code was of the utmost importance, he said.

Gale Delays Liner

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cunard liner Mauretania arrived Saturday about 43 hours behind schedule because of 86-mile-an-hour winds that delayed her sailing from English Channel ports.

LABOR BOARD OF B.C. SCORED BY MOSHER

WINNIPEG (CP)—The B.C. Labor Relations Board has taken on an "irresponsible usurpation" of workers' rights, President A. R. Mosher of the Canadian Congress of Labor said today at the C.C.L.'s annual convention here.

Mr. Mosher said this action had come about through the board having assumed the right to decide in which union an employee is eligible for membership.

"Strong representations have been made to the British Columbia authorities," he said.

$9,000 Cache Found In Chopping Machine

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Approximately $9,000 in old bills were found cached in a bale of wool being fed into a machine in a wool scouring plant, U.S. Treasury agents disclosed Saturday. About $120 already had been chopped up by the machine when the workers processing the 700-pound bale saw what they thought were scraps of green paper. The money has been impounded until ownership is established.

Farmers Urge Govt. Move To Increase Their Income

OTTAWA (CP)—Representatives of farm groups in Alberta and Saskatchewan called on the federal cabinet today seeking "as one of the basic industries of Canada, our fair share of the national income."

In a 5,000-word brief entitled "The Western Agricultural Petition of Rights," C. J. Stimpfle of Edmonton, president of the Farmers' Union of Alberta, and J. L. Phelps, president of the Saskatchewan Farmers' Union, called on the federal government for a "definite answer within 30 days" on various points at issue.

The brief said farmers were dissatisfied because they did not feel they had been given increases in returns comparable with those gained by other sections of the Canadian economy.

It stressed the "serious situation which has arisen from the almost catastrophic frost which, striking a bumper crop, with consequent reductions in quantity and quality of the grain, again poignantly underlines the continuous hazards and continuing insecurities of the agricultural industry and the farm community."

The groups led off with a request that price controls be reimposed on all goods, services, rents, wages and profits, including the prices of agricultural products, "on an equitable basis."

Falling this, they asked immediate increases in the initial prices on all grades of wheat, "and further to establish agricultural basic prices on a basis of parity with the cost of production and living, the same to be retroactive to cover all grain of the 1950 crop, and that any deficit be made up by monies to be made available through the Agricultural Prices Support Act."

The brief sought adjustment of present grain-grading practices which would lessen the effect of the unseasonable frost on grades of wheat and on the farmer's pocketbook.

THE HOME GARDENS

Heaths And Heathers For Lazy Gardeners

By JACK G. BEASTALL

Today's article is going to cost a certain Victoria gardener a nice, crisp five-dollar bill!

We met on Fort Street and he wanted to know why writers of gardening columns insist on repeating things which every gardener knows and never come up with something new.

So, sticking my neck out, I said, "What would you like me to write about?" Leaning close and wagging his finger under my nose, he replied: "I'll give you a nice, crisp five-dollar bill if you'll write me an article on a garden full of plants which require the absolute minimum of attention, and which will give me some flowers in every month of the year."

Well, either my friend isn't such a good gardener as I thought he was, or else I'm a better writer than he supposed. The answer is simple—a garden of heaths and heathers.

There are dwarf varieties for edging the beds and walks; others from nine to 24 inches in height for filling-in, and the tree heathers to use for breaking "flatness," and for backgrounds and hedges.

NEED LITTLE ATTENTION

As to the amount of attention necessary, the only requirements are an even moisture at the roots, removing faded flowers—easily done with hedge shears—and, as the plants become older, taking out dead wood.

World Atlas Of Disease Being Compiled In U.S.

Polio Mapped First; Next Will Be Cancer; Other Ailments To Follow In Great Study

NEW YORK (AP)—An atlas of disease has been started by the American Geographical Society as a new approach to health.

Already the society has made a world map of polio, the first in a projected series of 25. Next is cancer.

This attempt to throw the geography book at human ills is looked upon by its director, Dr. Jacques M. May, as a military necessity as well as a great chance to advance basic knowledge.

"The society had a similar plan in 1944," he explains. "Now the pressure of events has forced on us an urgent study of these matters. We have to sum up our knowledge on the distribution of disease throughout the world since any area may become a battlefield."

WIDE EXPERIENCE

Paris-born and educated, 54-year-old Dr. May has had much first-hand experience treating disease in odd corners of the world. A First World War veteran, he formerly was a professor of surgery in French Indo-China and a medical officer in southeast Asia, central Africa, Europe and the Caribbean region. Now he is a lecturer at New York University.

"There is no other such concentrated study as this," he said in an interview. "It used to be that one of the few things known about a disease was where it occurred. Then, after the discovery of germs, interest in the geography factor dropped. Now we realize more and more that disease is a product of the soil."

Polio was mapped first because of its relative simplicity, although you wouldn't believe it to glance at the map. As big as a desk top and showing the whole world in sections, it indicates with red lines, dots and grids the regions where polio epidemics have occurred this century, when they occurred and how serious they were.

The highly-civilized parts of North America and Europe have had more polio epidemics than other regions. In primitive countries, Dr. May believes, the disease is present but does not flare up in big epidemics. It looks as if the virus is so common that everybody gets a chance to develop immunity at an early age. In advanced regions, people seem to encounter the virus late in life, with the result that public immunity is slow in developing.

If he can raise some $58,000, Dr. May hopes to map the 25 diseases in two or three years and then go on to 25 more. The maps are to be published for general distribution.

Airborne Hunting

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Count Björn von Rosen, Swedish author and expert on Ethiopia, plans an airborne hunting expedition to that country. It will start this fall if 18 hunters are found who are willing to spend $1,300 each and three weeks in the big-game wilderness near the Awash River.

'SARTORIAL PETER PANS'

LONDON (Reuter) — Britain's leading male fashion oracle classifies the United States as a country of "sartorial Peter Pans" — they've never grown up as far as clothes are concerned. John Taylor, editor of the Trade paper Tailor and Cutter, let loose his broadside in an interview. "At present American clothes resemble the fantastic fashions of equatorial regions," Taylor said.

One Mason Lays Wall At Thames

LONDON (CP) — A new embankment, built on the south bank of the Thames River for the 1951 Festival of Britain, can justly be called the wall that Jack built.

Its construction was almost wholly a one-man job. Every piece of granite in the 1,700-foot stretch of wall from Waterloo Bridge to the London County Council building was laid by Jack Datson, a Cornish mason. Datson handled more than 2,000 tons of granite and finished his job four months ahead of time.

"It took 80 masons to cut

Many Pilgrims Visit Tomb On Lebanon Hill

BEYROUTH, Lebanon (AP) — The mountain-top tomb of a Lebanese hermit priest is drawing many Christian pilgrims who claim miraculous cures among the crippled and ailing who visit the shrine.

The tomb, in the stone wall of a crude chapel at a 200-year-old monastery 50 miles north of Beyrouth, is that of Father Cherbel. The priest, whose full name was Abdullah Cherbel Makhlof, died in 1898 after living a hermit's life of meditation and prayer in a cell-like hut near the Maronite Monastery of St. Maroun.

Since the beginning of 1950 reports of unexplained cures have blossomed to the point where an estimated 50,000 persons have journeyed to the lonely monastery, whose priests are seeking sainthood for Father Cherbel.

The story goes that a year after Father Cherbel's death, a strange light was seen emanating from the monastery wall where enough stone to keep me going," he said today.

The wall, which cost $250,000 ($775,000) in materials alone, will serve as frontage for the festival's exhibition and concert hall. It will also mark another phase in a favorite project of Herbert Morrison, deputy prime minister—to clean up the south bank of the Thames, long a London eyesore.

the body was entombed in the ordinary way of the Maronite sect, without coffin or embalming. Exhumed, the body was reported to have been found without any signs of deterioration.

The corpse was placed in a glass-topped coffin and once weekly priests opened it to wipe away faint traces of what they said appeared to be minkled perspiration and blood. Reports spread that several persons who long had been crippled or ill were cured after praying before the coffin.

The Maronite order, a 1,300-year-old Christian sect, united with the Roman Catholic Church in 1736.

UNCLE RAY

There are plants which produce a dangerous oil. A little of this oil can cause painful skin trouble.

I am thinking of poison ivy, also of poison oak and poison sumac.

From its name we might suppose poison oak to be a tree, but it is a vinelike plant and never grows in the form of a tree. It may be found about the trunk of an oak or some other tree, but that is different.

Only one of the plants I have named ever grows as a tree. That is poison sumac. Often it is only a low shrub, but there are times when it gets to be a tree as much as 20 feet tall. Clusters of white berries grow on poison sumac shrubs and trees.

Poison ivy is a distant relative of poison sumac, and a closer relative of poison oak. It is the most common "criminal" of the three.

Poison ivy may creep along the ground at the border of a woodland, or it may climb a post, a wall or a tree. It has leaves which appear in groups of three, and—like the poison sumac—produces white berries.

There are persons who can touch poison ivy without any bad result. Such persons are said to be "immune" to poison ivy. If you wonder whether or not you are immune, it is hardly a good idea to make a test! The result might be skin trouble for weeks. When a bit of the oil finds a place on your skin, it soon brings about an itch. The natural thing is to scratch the place which itches, and the oil may be spread to various parts of the body.

If, after a trip to an area where there is poison ivy, you believe you have been exposed to it, you may get rid of the danger by a good washing with soap and water. The soap lather should be thick, and the washing should be done five or six times. After you finish, apply rubbing alcohol, then rinse with clear water and dry the skin.

Meeting Over, Big Three Keep Decisions Secret

No Statement To Be Made Before New York 12-Nation North Atlantic Council Parley

NEW YORK (AP)—A highly-secret Big-Three conference concluded Saturday without any official hint of what was decided about including German units in a North Atlantic defence force.

A brief communique from the U.S., British and French foreign and defence ministers said they had discussed "an adequate integrated defence force for Europe."

It added that the ministers had agreed to make no further statement pending a meeting of the 12-nation North Atlantic Council this week. The meeting is tentatively scheduled for Tuesday in New York.

The U.S. was represented at the conference by State Secretary Acheson and Defence Minister George Marshall, the United Kingdom by Foreign Secretary Bevin and Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell, and France by Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and Defence Minister Jules Moch.

One reason for the secrecy was that the Big Three wanted the governments of the other nine countries of the North Atlantic Council to get a report on the two-day meeting before it is made public.

RUNAWAY BOY WAR VICTIM

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Four years ago Joseph Francis Colonna, then 15, ran away from home. His parents, Samuel and Sabia Colonna of Philadelphia, didn't hear of him again until a telegram arrived from the U.S. Defence Department. It informed them Joseph had been killed in action in Korea Sept. 2.

Commuters' Railway Rates Increased By 20 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners, in an order made public at the weekend, has granted a number of railways the right to increase by 20 per cent their current rates on commuters' tickets.

The lines include the Canadian National Railway, Canadian Pacific Railway Company, the Dominion Atlantic Railway Company and the Northern Alberta Railways Company.

The board also ordered the railways issue commuter tickets good for 40 trips on the same conditions and at rates 10 per cent less than those now applying on 50-trip tickets. It said the 20-trip tickets, now available only to holders of 50-trip tickets, would be made available to holders of 40-trip tickets.

SHOTTON WILL NOT RETIRE FROM BASEBALL

Many Figure Burt Will Join Rickey With Pittsburgh

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Burt Shotton says he isn't going to retire from baseball yet, which strengthens the rumors that Branch Rickey will become general manager of Pittsburgh Pirates after he sells his Brooklyn Dodger stock.

What has Shotton's future plans to do with Rickey going to the Pirates? That's easy. The two have been the Damon and Pythias of baseball. Where Rickey goes, Shotton is sure to follow.

The 66-year-old Shotton said Sunday "I'll be in baseball next year. I don't know where, but I'll have a baseball job."

It's almost a cinch the Dodger manager won't remain in Brooklyn after Rickey leaves. The Brooklyn board of directors is almost certain to clean house and Burt, if he doesn't resign first, is expected to be swept out.

If Shotton is through in Brooklyn and he's to remain baseball, where will he go? With Rickey to Pittsburgh, of course.

"I'll stay in baseball as long as Branch needs me," he has said many times.

This chain of events started Saturday with the disclosure in New York by William Zeckendorf, wealthy real estate executive, that he will buy Rickey's 25 per cent stock interest in the Brooklyn club.

Zeckendorf said the entire transaction had been engineered through the co-operation of John Galbreath, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Galbreath also is a real estate executive and he has done business with Zeckendorf before.

Hollywood Beaten Twice By Padres

Second-place San Diego squelched Hollywood's slim chance of repeating its Pacific Coast Baseball League's pennant Sunday as it swept a double-header, 6 to 1 and 5 to 4, from the Stars in their home park. Hollywood is 18 games off the pace.

At the same time, the Padres crept up a game on first-place Oakland as the Oaks divided a Sunday series with Sacramento, taking the first, 4 to 2, and losing the nighter, 6 to 2, at home. Rain washed out Sunday's double-headers between Los Angeles and Seattle at Seattle and the Portland-set Beavers vs. San Francisco.

Saturday, Seattle's Jim Wilson returned to action after nine days with a sore shoulder for his 24th victory—a 5 to 2 job—and put Rainiers at the 500 mark and two games ahead of Portland and San Francisco.

First Game—R. H. E.
San Diego 2 6 2
Hollywood 6 9 2
Embre and Kerr; Lehman, Mondorf (4) and Sandick.

Second—
San Diego 5 10 1
Hollywood 6 9 2
Welmaker, Zuerink (7), and Moore; Wade, Schallack (6), Maltzberger (7) and Dapper.

Registration of junior hockey players will take place at the Y.M.C.A. Tuesday night between 7 and 8. Last year's players and others interested in playing minor hockey this year are asked to report.

CANADIAN GRID ROUND-UP

Edmonton Continues Smashing Bid For Western Championship

To the relief of the experts, Canada has finally had a football weekend in which all the games went according to the form chart. Some of the scores brought the occasional lifted eyebrow and one game was decided by a touchdown with two minutes left to play. But the winning teams—which aren't necessarily the pre-season favorites—kept winning and the losers—some of them sure-fire bets a couple of months back—kept losing.

The closest fit was the Western Interprovincial Union III in which Indian Jack Jacobs tossed 35-yard touchdown pass to Tommy Ford in the dying minutes of the final quarter to give the second-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers a 15 to 9 victory over the third-place Saskatchewan Roughriders.

But there was nothing close about what the league-leading Edmonton Eskimos did to Calgary's once-proud Stampeders. Les Lear's red-sweatered 1949 Dominion footballers took a 38 to 8 lacing

Opening Coast League Soccer Action

Doug Cairns, 18-year-old goalie of North Shore, leaps high into the air to pick off high shot during Saturday's engagement here against Victoria United. Although visibly nervous in the opening half, Cairns settled down after the interval and looked good in protecting his shutout. Wallace Milligan, clever centre-forward of the United, watches the goalie in case of a fumble while moving in on the play at the left is North Shore centre-half Alex Reid.

ROCKS COACH LOOKS FOR FORM REVERSAL TONIGHT

It's all or nothing for the Shamrocks at New Westminster tonight, but, despite the fact the Adanacs lead the current Intercity Lacrosse League seven-game final series, three games to one, coach Arnold Ferguson is confident the Irish can beat the A's in their own backyard.

"The Rocks have always been at their best when the chips are down," Ferguson said, "and I look for a return to form the club displayed in the Indians series in tonight's game."

The only line-up change sees Steve Rynoski returning to the club in place of the injured Edwin Popham. Club president Andy Ovcharik will act as utility man.

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A polo game was halted by sudden tragedy Sunday when Lester Johnson, of Boise, Idaho, was crushed to death beneath the body of his fallen pony.

The second game of the Inland Empire Polo Tournament, between Boise and Sheridan, Wyo., was tied 4 to 4 in the fourth chukker when Johnson's horse collided with the mount of a Sheridan player and went down. Johnson, 42, suffered a crushed chest and fractured skull. He died at the scene.

New York Giants Buy Two Players

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Giants today announced the purchase of second-baseman Pete Pavlick from Jersey City and the outright sale of outfielder Pete Milne to Minneapolis. Both minor league clubs belong in the Giant system.

Pavlick, 24, batted .270 in Jersey City. He led the International League in stolen bases with 22. Milne, also 24, has been playing with Minneapolis since July of this year.

United Wilts Under Second Half Drive

Fading badly in the second half, Victoria United suffered a 4 to 0 setback in its opening Coast League football engagement against North Shore at Athletic-Park Saturday afternoon. Close to 1,000 fans were on hand and witnessed flashes of good football, mostly on the part of the visitors.

After holding Shores to a 1 to 0 half-time margin the United fell apart in the final 45 minutes. The club lost all its drive as the visitors settled down to uncover a lot of smooth passing and good positional play.

United, as usual, suffered from the lack of inside forwards. Making his first appearance in a local uniform Wallace Milligan displayed a lot of smart touches at centre-forward but his efforts were wasted through failure of the inside man to provide support. Absence of regulars Tommy Druce, Red McMillan and Len Scott also hurt the Victoria club.

MISS CHANCES

North Shore's one-goal lead in the first half, as the result of a close-in shot by left winger Elmer Buchanan, was all against the run of the play. The United had plenty of scoring opportunities and should have taken advantage of the shaky net minding of youthful Doug Cairns. Cairns was just able to get his boot to a low shot and deflect it over the bar. Outside right Hope, who showed up well in a strange position, had three shots at the net, hitting the upright on one occasion with the goalie cleanly beaten.

As Shores took command of the play in the second half the United showed a tendency to bunch with the result their offensive play suffered. Five minutes after play resumed Bill Smith made it 2 to 0 and before the final whistle George Smith and the veteran Jimmy Spencer completed the scoring.

United suffered the loss of left winger Ab Travis early in the second half when he turned an ankle and had to be carried from the field.

Victoria club makes its next start on the mainland Saturday against North Shore.

TRAVIS OUT FOR MONTH

An X-ray examination of Ab Travis yesterday revealed that Victoria United outside left has two cracks in his ankle as a result of his fall during the Pacific Coast League match against North Shore Saturday.

The limb has been put into a plaster cast and it will be at least a month before he is ready to resume his football activities.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago came through under pressure with a three-under-par 69 for a 72-hole total of 271 to win first money in the $15,000 Kansas City Open golf tournament Sunday.

He beat out Ed (Porky) Oliver of Seattle, Wash., and Jack Burke Jr., of White Plains, N.Y., by a single stroke.

Oliver, leader over Mangrum by one stroke after three rounds, shot a 71 while Burke came in with a 68. Each earned $1,650. Mangrum's championship prize was $2,600.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., shot his second successive 66 for a total of 276 that not only had him ahead in the amateur class, but fourth in the final standings.

E. J. Harrison of St. Andrews, Ill., had a 69 for 277 and $1,150 Skip Alexander of Knoxville, Tenn., had a 68 for 278 and an even $1,000. Big Jim Ferrier, Canadian Open champion from San Francisco, had a 70 for 270 and $900.

Robinson's 'Boner' About Ruins Detroit

Yankees Hold 2½-Game Margin In Ball Race

The 1950 American League pennant race is just about over but it will long be remembered as the year catcher Aron Robinson pulled one of the biggest "boners" in baseball history. Robinson's blunder gave Cleveland Indians a 2 to 1, 10-inning victory over Detroit yesterday and practically erased the Tigers' pennant hopes.

The defeat dropped the second-place Tigers 2½ games behind New York Yankees who knocked third-place Boston almost out of contention by trouncing the Red Sox 9 to 5.

The Yanks need only six victories of their remaining eight games to clinch their second straight championship. If the Yanks win only four, the Tigers must win all of their seven to beat them out.

Robinson's rock happened this way: With the score tied 1 to 1 in the 10th, Bob Lemon led off with a triple. Tiger manager Red Rolfe ordered Ted Gray to walk the next two batters to set up a force play at every base.

Laddy Doby popped to first-baseman Don Kolloway, Luke Easter followed with a grounder to Kolloway. Kolloway stepped on first to retire Easter and pegged to Robinson who stomped on the plate while Lemon was starting his slide about eight feet away.

REVERSES DECISION

Umpire Bill Summers thumbed Lemon out but the pitcher slid across the plate, Robinson, apparently thinking he still had a force play, made no attempt to tag Lemon. The Cleveland bench dashed at Summers and when it was pointed out that Lemon had to be tagged in order to be declared out, Summers reversed his decision.

Robinson said later he thought Kolloway hadn't tried to touch first base before firing the ball to the plate.

"When Easter hit that ball down the first base line, I saw Kolloway field it but Easter is such a big guy that he had my vision blocked off and I never saw Don touch first base for the out."

"When I got the ball I stepped on home figuring it was a force out."

Lemon was the whole works as he stopped the Tigers on five hits for his 22nd victory and scored both runs. Lemon socked his sixth homer in the fourth and Johnny Lipon tied it in the seventh with his first homer of the year. That's how matters remained until the Robinson incident.

21st FOR RASCHI

Brian Appleton and Bruce Hopkins of Victoria Golf Club retained the city junior golf buttons at Oak Bay Sunday as they scored a 1-up triumph over John Merriman and Ron Shea of Gorge Vale.

The winners had a best ball of 73 as compared to the losers' 74.

WOOD RETAINS WORLD'S SINGLE SCULLS HONORS

Australian Champ Easy Winner Over U.S.-English Stars

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Merwyn T. Wood, an Australian policeman, retained the world's single sculling championship Saturday when he defeated John B. (Jack) Kelly Jr., Canadian and United States champion, and Anthony D. (Tony) Rowe of England in the race for the Philadelphia Gold Challenge Cup.

Wood came from behind to win the 1¼-mile race in 7:14.15 over the smooth waters of the Schuylkill River.

The final margin was 2½ lengths. Kelly, rowing a faster stroke but steering poorly, was second. Rowe, off to a flying start, was no match for the others after the first quarter, and was third.

Wood, 33, won the Gold Cup and the world title when he triumphed in the 1948 Olympics. He represented the Sydney police department.

Jack Guest Jr., Don Rowing Club of Toronto, won the singles quarter-mile dash by a scant length in a field of five.

Morrison Wins Over Hibberson

Shooting sub par golf veteran Bob Morrison defeated Erick Hibberson 4 and 3 in the quarter-finals of the Uplands Club men's championship.

Other championship flight results saw Joe Barlow beat Russell Ard 2 and 1. Frank Scroggs beat Jack Sparks 4 and 3 and Don Gowan won from Gil Briscoe 6 and 4.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER

Tonight in a dingy little smoke-filled arena known as Queens Park, Victoria Shamrocks and New Westminster Adanacs will battle it out in the fifth game of their Intercity Lacrosse League best-of-seven final series.

For the Shamrocks, Victoria's pride and joy in this, their fledgling season in the Intercity loop, it may well mean the end of the trail. For the Adanacs it could be the beginning of yet another quest for the Mann Cup, emblematic of supremacy in Canada's national game.

No, we're not counting the fighting Irish greenshirts out just yet, though the Adanacs off their last two triumphs are overwhelming favorites to end the series tonight. The Rocks have bounced back before. They've written a great chapter into the Intercity League this year and regardless of the fact that the A's lead this series three games to one, there's still 60 minutes of action left before anything in the rugged series will be conceded.

Season Of Surprises

Precedent has already taken a bad beating this year, starting with the Shamrocks gaining a playoff berth back in August. Coach John Cavillin of Burrards probably expressed it best when he said: "I didn't know there were so many good senior B players in the province until I saw what Arnold Ferguson had gathered together in Victoria. From now on I'm going to scout these senior B leagues."

Then when the Shamrocks drew Indians as opponents in the semifinals, even loyal Victorians feared the worst as the tribe was the only club to hold a season's edge over the Irish. The Rocks again shattered precedent in first of all breaking the jinx the tribe had established on the Arena floor and then gaining the finals by scoring their first victory over the Indians on the mainland in the final game.

Queens Park A Jinx

Last Friday the Adanacs registered their first win in Victoria to give the lie to another fallacy. This may be an omen and thousands of Victorians hope so, but the Irish have not yet won a game against the A's at Queens Park. Tonight is definitely their final chance.

If the Rocks win this one, those same thousands of Victorians will start lining up for tickets at the Memorial Arena somewhere around 5 Tuesday morning. If they lose—well, why not take a page from radio station CJVI's book and give this Cinderella club another tumultuous welcome out at the airport on their arrival home. They deserve it. It's been a long time since any club has given our city anything athletic to cheer about.

Toronto Is Nice, Too

This may be selfish, but much as I would like to see the Shamrocks win and force a sixth game here, the possibility that there may be a seventh game leaves me rather despondent. The reason is simple. I won't be here to see it if the series does go the limit. I'll be on my way to the World Series come Thursday evening. But wouldn't it be nice to be ordered away from Philadelphia, New York, Boston or Detroit and told to cover the Mann Cup finals in Toronto? How about it, Shamrocks?

Joe Louis Predicts Kayo Will End Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—In the glare of the lights at Yankee Stadium Wednesday night, one of the greatest ring warriors the world has seen will try at the age of 36 to win back the heavyweight championship.

In the long history of pugilism, no big man ever has regained the title he lost or surrendered. Joe Louis believes he will be the first. Ezzard Charles, the lean, black 29-year-old slasher from Cincinnati, is just as certain that Joe will fail.

Charles has held the world title, in the eyes of the National Boxing Association, since he outpointed Jersey Joe Walcott at Chicago last June 22. He has defended it successfully three times, knocking out Gus Lesnevich, Pat Valentino and Freddie Beshore.

Louis, full of age and with no valid challenger in sight, announced March 1, 1949, that he had reached the end of his brilliant career. He had, since winning the championship from Jimmy Braddock, defended it on 25 occasions and had won 22 times by knockouts.

Most of those who saw the Brown Bomber at his best hoped he would stay retired. They preferred to remember him as he was—the fighter with animal-like grace and reflexes who caused their pulse to race as he stalked and brought down his prey.

But it wasn't to be. A few months ago the word got around that Joe needed a rough $200,000 to settle arrears on his income tax, and on Aug. 17 he announced he was coming back. The International Boxing Club had to promise Louis 35 per cent of the net receipts. Charles, who never before has fought for a really big gate, was glad to settle for 20 per cent.

There probably will be close to $300,000 in the house when the bell rings Wednesday night. Ringiders will pay $30 for the privilege of watching Louis pursue his younger, faster opponent and try to corner him for the kill somewhere within the 15 rounds.

Just what the spectators will see, nobody can safely predict. It could be a good fight or it could develop into a sad spectacle—the latter if Louis tires and Charles finds it possible to step around the old warrior and chop him up in the latter rounds.

Joe insists it will never go the limit. He declares, somewhat flatteringly, that Charles is a man who will stand up and fight, and that "it'll end in a knockout, one way or another."

Colwood Golf Club defeated Ingelwood Club of Seattle, 32 to 12, in an interclub match at Colwood Sunday.

Out By A Country Mile

Sliding Dom DiMaggio of the Boston Red Sox is an easy out on an attempted steal of second base in the first inning of a game at Cleveland. The Indians' Joe Gordon is already pulling back after tagging DiMaggio. The umpire is Johnny Stevens.

Canadians Will Seek Honors In Jewish Olympics

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Leading Jewish athletes from 28 countries are flocking into Israel by airplane to vie for top honors in the All-Jewish World Olympics, opening Sept. 27.

Organizers of the big sports show predict 500 foreign entrants will participate in the wide range of events, slated to continue through Oct. 8. The Canadian team consists of 17 wrestlers, boxers, swimmers and basketball players.

The organizers expect the Olympics to attract official delegations from various countries and tourists numbering 3,000 or more persons.

The organizing committee for the third Macabiah—All-Jewish World Olympics—is spending $700,000 on international publicity and for the leasing of stadium facilities, the housing, feeding and transportation of those coming here to compete.

The Olympics will be officially declared open Wednesday by President Chaim Weizmann.

Defending champion Alan Taylor qualified for the title flight with an 81.

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Canadiens defeated their farm club, Cincinnati Mohawks, 6 to 4, in the initial exhibition game of the season for both teams.

Calum MacKay led Canadiens' attack with two goals and Normie Dussault, Gene Harmon, Elmer Lach and rookie Jean Beliveau had one each.

Gerry Plamondon spearheaded a late drive by Mohawks, counting their last two goals after Ivan Irwin and Fern Perrault had scored earlier.

Gerry McNeill and Jacques Plante split the goal-tending duties for Canadiens. Emile Francis worked the full game for Cincinnati.

Henderson Stars In Heaney's Win

Heaney's youthful soccer club spoiled Duncan's home opening in the Victoria and District Soccer League Sunday by returning home with a 2 to 1 victory to move into undisputed possession of second place in the seven-team circuit.

On Saturday Esquimalt and Britannias each scored their second straight victory of the young season to remain in a first-place tie.

The dockyarders tripped Oak Bay, 4 to 2, while the veterans nipped Alcos, 3 to 2.

Roy Speller and Gordie Hayward sparked the Esquimalt win, each notching a pair of goals. Bobby Rowe and Al Denoni tallied for Oak Bay.

ALCOS LEAD

Alcos took the lead on a goal by Cliff Ross in their match with Britannias but Jim Davidson tied it up for the Vets before half time. George Pickup shot the Vets into the lead shortly after the second half got under way and Fuzz Blair notched the winner before Doug Day got Alcos' second goal on a penalty shot.

HENDERSON STARRY

Up at Duncan the stand-out performer was goalkeeper Bill Henderson of Heaney's. Henderson was terrific all through the game and in the final 10 minutes almost singlehandedly won the game for his club with a sensational performance. Charlie Lewis, who has been in football in Victoria for 20-odd years, said it was the greatest display he had ever seen.

Jack Donald and Art Dawe, two juniors, gave Heaney's their second-half goals after a scoreless first half. Eugene Thorne tallied Duncan's lone marker about 10 minutes from time. Duncan will make their first appearance in the city next Saturday when they tangle with Victoria West. Also on the week-end schedule will be a meeting between Britannias and Esquimalt and Alcos and Oak Bay. Parks will be announced later in the week.

Kuntz Wants To Play Amateur

VANCOUVER (CP)—Alan Kuntz, a Pacific Coast Hockey League star, has asked for his release to enable him to play with Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Hockey League. The high-scoring forward's plea to Coley Hall, owner of the P.C.H.L. Vancouver Canucks, was reinforced by a telegram from Tommy Gorman, manager of the eastern club.

"Kuntz doesn't particularly fit into our plans this year," commented Hall, but he added: "However, Kuntz presents a considerable investment on my part and I can't just let him go. I made Ottawa an offer and now it's up to Gorman."

Eight Players In Fold As Cougars Open Camp

Victoria Cougars opened training for the 1950-51 P.C.H.L. season at Nanaimo this morning with eight players under the direction of captain Bernie Strongman and business manager Fred Hutchinson taking the ice for the initial session at 11.30.

The club will work out twice a day at either Nanaimo or the Memorial Arena—depending on the fortunes of the Shamrocks at New Westminster tonight—until Saturday when they meet Vancouver Canucks in an exhibition game at the up-island centre.

Denny Huddleston, who will be remembered best for his lacrosse activities with the Vancouver Indians, is the latest to join the Cougar camp. The big defenceman played in the prairie circuit last year and will be vying for a berth on the club at one of the rearguard positions.

Others who checked in at the opening workout were goalie Hec Highton, Flori Goegan, Strongman, Joe Evans, Roy McKay, Jack McIntyre and Fred Hildebrand.

Coach Roger Leger will remain in the east for a day or two but is expected to arrive here on the coast about Thursday. Hutchinson disclosed the fact today that seven or eight players will be coming west with Leger and all will be traveling by air. However, it is not yet known who the players will be.

Canadiens have been training for a week now and on Sunday played an exhibition game at Valleyfield, Quebec. The N.H.L. squad is expected to be cut down either today or tomorrow, and the Victoria players should be known as soon as the trimming takes place.

Meanwhile, tickets went on sale this morning at the hockey club office for the exhibition game here with Vancouver Canucks, a week tomorrow night. Cougar headquarters at Nanaimo are at the Malaspina Hotel.

Giants May Move Jersey City Club

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—Television was blamed for another minor league club's difficulties as New York Giants Baseball Club disclosed the possible sale or transfer of their Jersey City farm team.

Charles Feeney, vice-president of the Giants, said no decision had been reached on the status of the International League club which attracted only 70,000 paid admissions this season while finishing fourth.

"There were a variety of factors responsible for the low attendance, but television was important," Feeney said. "Most people apparently preferred to see a major league game televised rather than come out to our games."

MONTREAL (CP)—C. M. Sommer, 64, was killed Sunday in a fall from the top of an 11-story building he owned in downtown Montreal. Police said the man was looking over repairs to the roof of the building when he lost his balance and fell to the sidewalk.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Tense Pace Of Living Causes Colon Trouble

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

A spastic colon or irritable bowel is undoubtedly one of the most common conditions afflicting modern man. This disagreeable disorder seems to be at least partly the result of the tense pace of living today and the nervous strain of our present society.

In a person with an irritable colon, the wave-like motions or peristalsis of the bowel which pushes the waste down the intestines come too close together and force the material along too fast. This usually causes diarrhea for a short time, after which the bowels are empty and will not move merely because there is nothing left there. Consequently people often think that they are constipated; they take a cathartic, and the whole vicious cycle is gone through again.

Those who are afflicted with an irritable bowel are likely to be on the thin side. They are often overly nervous and emotional. They all know that getting frightened or angry makes their symptoms worse.

Often the intestinal waves come so frequently as to cause discomfort and griping in the abdomen. Frequently people feel bloated and notice gurgling sounds. Whenever emotional up-sets or worry come along the condition almost always gets worse. This may be followed by a day or two during which the bowels do not move but the abdominal pain may continue. Exposure to cold, various irritating foods, especially raw fruits and vegetables, tend to make the condition worse. Cathartics and laxatives are frequently responsible for setting off an attack.

Those who understand the relations between their nerves and the symptoms of their irritable bowel can also help themselves a great deal by trying to avoid annoyance, worry, and emotional upsets.

BLAND DIET HELPFUL

Even after the disorder seems to be much better some mental or physical upset or some change of diet may bring on another bout of trouble. A spastic colon does not lead to cancer or other serious diseases but it does cause a lot of discomfort.

When the condition has not existed too long, treatment is fairly effective. This includes strict avoidance of laxatives and laxative foods such as raw fruits and vegetables. The use of what is called a bland diet consisting largely of cooked cereals, creamed soups, milk products, eggs, fish and other non-irritating substances, and attention to the general health is desirable. If the condition has lasted for a great many years, treatment is complicated, long, and often not completely successful.

Why I Believe There Is A God

By FULTON OURSLER

CHAPTER 7

The antidote to reckless zeal was given us by Jesus, Who said we must be as wise as serpents and as harmless as doves. Often we must use a serpentine wisdom in this practical world, even to accomplish results that most people of good will most heartily approve.

Let me tell you a true story of a friend of mine who knew how to be cunning as well as kind. His zeal was dynamite; as one small stick of explosive, strategically placed, can clear away tons of rock, so the sophisticated Christianity of my friend actually helped to change the face of our time. It began in his office, which was in Brooklyn.

Oursler

The room was large and simply furnished, and there were two framed pictures on the wall. One was a Kodachrome snapshot of a garrulous problem child of baseball. The other, hanging behind the paper-littered desk, was a rare collector's item, portrait of a prophet, the face trusting and full of faith.

Behind the desk stood Branch Rickey, owner of the Dodgers; facing him loomed a tall and powerful negro, a perfectly muscled 185-pounder, with enormous hands and bold, bright eyes.

IF YOU CAN

"Well, Jackie Robinson," began the baseball boss, "I suppose you know why I brought you here?"

"Of course, Mr. Rickey. You want me to play with your all-colored Brooklyn team."

Branch Rickey shook his head. "No, Jackie. I brought you here to play for the Brooklyn Dodgers—if you can."

For a moment the dark man's tongue was chained up without a sound. What he had just heard was almost beyond his belief. For all of 70 years there had been racial exclusion in big-league baseball, and in spite of latter-day agitation and bitterness, conservatives still insisted that the game would speedily collapse if the color line were to be broken. No wonder this dark, large-boned athlete, tall and supple as a Zulu prince, could not believe his ears.

"You'd really dare to put a black boy on your team, Mr. Rickey?"

"But not because you're a black boy!" snapped Rickey sharply. "That would surely mean trouble. If I take you on, it's got to be because you're a ballplayer—and a good one."

In two exciting years Jackie Robinson was to learn that Branch Rickey's view of the problem transcended mere race antagonism; its roots lay deep in a simple faith that tact and tenacity can clear up any kind of human misunderstanding.

LOTS OF HURDLES
"Jackie," resumed Branch Rickey, "there are a lot of hurdles for you. I've got to be sure you're really big league. But, above all, I've got to be sure that you can stand the gaff. Do you know what you're going to be up against? Look me in the eye, Jackie. I'm not Branch Rickey any more. Now I'm a hotel clerk in some lousy dump where they won't like you."

The change in the baseball manager was uncanny; the gruff, kindly face instantly turned into Simon Legree; hate crackled in angry eyes.

"You can't stay here in this white man's hotel! Trying to play on a white man's team! You want to be white? What you doing this for? Answer me!"

The dark chin went up. The big boy swallowed hard and then faltered:

"I don't want to be white. I just want to play big-league ball to prove to all the rest of our people that they've got a chance too."

Rickey whirled and walked across the room. When he turned again he was impersonating another unpleasant character: a shoulder-swinging, forward-lurching lout.

JIM CROW
"You get out of this white man's car. You belong in a Jim Crow car. You can't travel with white men. A nigger is a nigger, and that's all he'll ever be—just a nigger. Well, what've you got to say?"

A dangerous light flared up in Jackie Robinson's eyes. His fists were clenched; for a moment Rickey wondered if he was going to attack. Then the hands dropped.

"I don't want to make any trouble. I just came down here to play ball."

But then a sudden cry escaped him:

"Mr. Rickey, what do you have to say these things to me for?"

The manager laid a steady hand on one prodigious shoulder. "Because other people are going to say even worse things to you. And we can't fight prejudice man by man—there's too many. We can't just go out and prate and preach and crusade, and bust our heads against a brick wall. You're a Christian, Jackie, and you ought to know the Bible. The dear Lord once said we must be harmless as doves, but also wise as serpents. That means smart as a rattlesnake, without the venom. It's just good, simple Christianity for us to face realities, to recognize what we're up against, and to fight the problems with tact and common sense, good will and guts!"

A TEMPER
The ballplayer replied:

"Mr. Rickey, anybody who says I can't take it doesn't know what I've already gone through and what I'm prepared to go through to make good. But can we win?"

The baseball magnate grabbed the player's arms.

"Sure, there'll be players from some Jim Crow states that'll get sore if you come on the team. They'll learn, because we'll teach them, not antagonize them. But, Jackie, haven't you got a little bit of a temper yourself?"

"Mr. Rickey," answered Robinson, "my temper is simply a beauty."

"I thought you were about to break me in half a few minutes ago," said Rickey. "Now that's very serious. You're going to be the one man in baseball who can't lose his temper. You're not going to like all the umpires' decisions. Swallow them and grin. And all the insults. Because if you get in a brawl, Jackie, they won't just take it out on you—they'll stigmatize your people because of you. Out on the field you've got to be almost a saint. How're you going to manage that?"

"Only way I know to do," said Jackie, "is how my mother taught me. I've got to pray!"

OFFERED BONDS

From a drawer of his desk Branch Rickey now produced two blue-covered documents. They were not contracts. They were simply agreements in which Jackie Robinson promised to sign a contract if he should be offered one. But the terms were explicit. He was to be paid $600 a month if and when he was taken on—plus a bonus of $3,500 in cash.

The player signed his full name—Jack Roosevelt Robinson. But as Rickey picked up his copy, he saw Robinson's great brown hand extended, holding out the other copy; the player's eyes fixed on the face in the framed picture above the manager's desk. "Mr. Rickey," he said huskily, "I realize this is an important piece of paper. You better keep it for me."

(From the book entitled, "Why I Know There Is A God." Copyright 1950, by Fulton Oursler.)

Tomorrow, Fulton Oursler tells how Jackie Robinson won his greatest battle and demonstrated the power of prayer. By his victory he justified the faith of his employer, Branch Rickey.

Labor M.P.'s Attack On Party Leaders Widens Gap In British Government Following

By HAROLD K. MILKS

LONDON (AP)—A Labor Party member of the House of Commons at the week-end accused the leaders of his own party of trying to scuttle the Schuman plan because they want Britain to "remain in glorious isolation and independence."

R. W. G. Mackay, M.P. for Hull and a member of the British delegation to the recent Council of Europe meeting at Strasbourg, made the attack in a sizzling political pamphlet called "Heads in the Sand."

Mackay's attack may have wide repercussions. It may be the forerunner of a bitter intra-party struggle for power which is expected to erupt into the open at the Labor Party's annual congress opening at Margate Oct. 3.

The usually well-informed Press Association said Mackay's criticism was so vigorous that he was likely to be called before a meeting of the national executive committee Wednesday to explain. Loss of Mackay's vote would further weaken the Labor government, which won a test of confidence last week on the question of carrying out the nationalization of steel by a margin of only six votes.

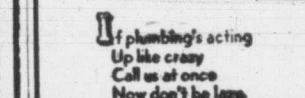

Political observers already are predicting a struggle between party moderates and a left-wing clique at Margate despite Prime Minister Attlee's efforts to keep the lid on.

Health Minister Aneurin Bevan, boss of the ultra-Socialist wing of the party, is clashing with the Deputy Prime Minister, Herbert Morrison. Bevan favors calling another general election almost at once in the hope of improving Labor's nominal seven-vote margin in Commons.

Attlee publicly backed party-strategist Morrison in a speech at Sheffield Saturday when he indicated he does not favor an autumn election.

Sooko Teachers' Association elected the following officers at a meeting Thursday in Belmont High School: J. B. Wilkinson, Milne's Landing, president; Miss E. Ruth King, Langford, vice-president; H. N. Parrot, Belmont, honorary past president; D. R. Kerley, Belmont, secretary; Mrs. P. Price, Sooko, treasurer; H. N. Palsson, Belmont, high school representative; R. C. Atkins, Langford, elementary school representative.

Russian Tone Changing On Korea War Situation

Soviet Apparently Preparing To Accept Setback Of Communists By United Nations

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia apparently is preparing to write off the crumbling Communist campaign in South Korea as an incident of no importance.

That is the view of the best informed U.S. officials. They say the Soviet position is not completely firm yet, but is clearly tipping toward acceptance of the Red setback in that area.

But the Russian attitude toward northern Korea may be dramatically different. There is a strong belief here that the Soviet forces or possibly Chinese Communist troops may occupy the country north of the 38th parallel for the expressed purpose of keeping peace but actually to prevent United Nations forces from getting close to Russian security areas like Vladivostok and the Manchurian border.

Ever since the United Nations landings near Seoul there has been, in the opinion of state department experts, a gradual change in Russian propaganda on the Korean war. It gets less time on the Moscow radio. It is given a more moderate handling.

In the last few days, for example, the Russians mildly commented that the landings were a sign of weakness in an effort to save face on the part of the U.S.

In addition some diplomats abroad are understood to have reported that Russian diplomats now are saying to the people they meet that the whole Korean affair is of no importance and should be settled soon in the interest of world peace.

23RD TRAFFIC FATALITY IN VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP)—Traffic fatalities in Vancouver for 1950 now total 23, following the death in hospital on Saturday night of a 62-year-old pedestrian.

Victim was Bjarne Borowick, who was struck by an automobile that went out of control and mounted the sidewalk. He died in hospital two hours later.

Police report no charge has yet been laid against the driver of the vehicle.

Forest Fires Cost $117,209 This Year

Cost of fighting forest fires in the province this year has reached $117,209.

B.C. Forest Service reported today this amount for 1,416 fires to date compares with $84,217 for 1,645 fires at this time last year.

There were 79 fires burning in various parts of the province today. One hundred and seventeen new fires broke out this week.

'LITTLE JOE' TO BE RELEASED

Eagle Now Full Grown, Soon To Have Freedom

By HUMPHRY DAVY

"Are you prepared to fend for yourself, Joe?"

The big-beaked bald eagle answered in a way which has become characteristic. He cocked his head to one side and opened his giant fanlike wings. He blinked his beady eyes which shone like two black shoe buttons.

Joe seemed to know that something big was in store for him. There is. He is going to be given his complete freedom. But we are not telling the time or place of Joe's take-off yet.

For two weeks we have been building up Joe for his return into the wilds. He is no longer the "Little Joe" who was picked up by the crew of the survey ship, William J. Stewart, on a lonely island two months ago. He is now a fully-grown adult, two feet high, equipped with big wings and knife-like talons.

Feeding him the last two days had made us feel like wardens giving last-minute attentions to a condemned man doomed to the gallows. The simile is not exaggerated as Joe's chances of survival during the first few weeks of his freedom are slim.

The chances are that Joe won't like to be alone in the big wide world without a friend. He'll perch on some farm house expecting a "hand-out" and will get a round of buckshot instead. If he doesn't make that blunder he will probably mistake the gun barrel of a hunter for a perch.

So, we have been feeding Joe a chicken a day as well as fish in the hopes that he will be able to stave off hunting for grub until he gets to know the facts of life a little better.

Yes, the odds are against Joe. Don't begrudge his chicken dinners. They may be his last.

Guerrillas Kill Briton

SINGAPORE (Reuter)—Guerrillas Friday killed a British soldier in Johore state when they fired on a military lorry, it was learned Sunday. The air force struck at guerrilla targets in Kelantan, Johore and Selangor states.

Train In Street Fighting

Officer cadets of the Royal Canadian Infantry Corps from Victoria College and the University of British Columbia take part in a street-fighting and house-clearing scheme at the Infantry School, Calgary.

Forty students from the two schools trained at Calgary this summer to qualify as officers in the Canadian Army. Recruiting campaign for this year opens today at Victoria College.

Marchioness Milford Haven Dies In London At Age 87

LONDON (CP)—The Marchioness of Milford Haven, 87, granddaughter of Queen Victoria and sister of the late Czarina of Russia, died Sunday at her Kensington Palace Home. She had been in poor health for many months.

The King ordered one week's family mourning.

The Marchioness was a cousin of the late King George V. The Duke of Edinburgh, Princess Elizabeth's husband, is a grandson.

Her husband, Prince Louis of Battenberg who became first Marquess of Milford Haven and served as First Sea Lord of the Admiralty during the First World War, died 29 years ago.

She was the mother of Earl Mountbatten of Burma, of Princess Andrew of Greece and of Crown Princess Louise of Sweden.

The Marchioness lost two of her sisters in the Russian Revolution—the Czarina and the Grand Duchess Serge.

Born April 5, 1863, the Marchioness was formerly Princess

Victoria Alberta Elizabeth Mathilde Marie, eldest daughter of the Grand Duke Ludwig IV of Hesse and of Princess Alice Maud Mary, second daughter of Queen Victoria.

In 1884, she married the first Marquess of Milford Haven, Louis Alexander, son of Prince Alexander of Hesse, who became a naturalized British subject on entering the navy in 1868, and was First Sea Lord at the outbreak of the First World War.

He retired from this post because of the anti-German feeling against him and later changed his German name of Battenberg to the English equivalent of Mountbatten.

The Marchioness had four children:

Alice, Princess Andrew of Greece, mother of the Duke of Edinburgh, who is the husband of Princess Elizabeth; Lady Louise Mountbatten, who married the Crown Prince of Sweden in 1923;

George, second marquess of Milford Haven, who died in 1938; and Vice-Admiral Earl Mountbatten of Burma.

Stay In Victoria Stirs Consul's Love For Canada

A stay of a little more than two years in Victoria has left departing U.S. Consul Paul Meyer with a future ambition to hold yet another Canadian post.

A veteran of the U.S. consular service in China, Mr. Meyer's Victoria appointment was his first in this country.

Prior to coming here he had served six years in the Yangtze Valley, seven years in Peking and two and one-half years in Kunming, on the Burma border.

In Tsingtao at the time of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Mr. Meyer returned to the U.S. on the first diplomatic exchange ship. He entered the State Department with which he served until the end of the war.

His first postwar appointment was to Shanghai where he remained until he was given the Victoria consulate.

Arriving here in June, 1948, Mr. Meyer, his wife and 16-year-old son, John, made firm friends in the city.

Tuesday, he will leave for another new experience. He will make his first Atlantic crossing to take up the post of Counsellor of Embassy at the U.S. Embassy in Dublin, Eire. First, however,

PAUL MEYER
... leaving for Dublin

he will report to diplomatic headquarters in Washington, D.C., after which he will embark from New York on Oct. 17.

He will be accompanied by his wife, but John will remain at New York to complete his school year before rejoining his parents.

THOUGHT-PROVOKING

Home Family Film Previewed At Royal

By AUDREY SLD. JOHNSON
The first Canadian film to review the effect of home and family on the personality development of children, was previewed at the Royal Theatre before an audience representing parent-teacher organizations, educational authorities and press, was present.

Reaction to the documentary film, entitled "Family Circles" was warmly approving. Running for 30 minutes, it will be shown in conjunction with the regular feature at the theatre, commencing next Wednesday.

With a cast including well-known radio actors John Drainie, Robert Christie and Beth Lockertie, it is well acted, convincing and probes deeply into the basic reasons for maladjustment of the child. The pointed astute direction of Winnipeg's Morten Parker and the interesting photography makes it an entertaining feature and one that is artistically and dramatically satisfying.

In the Canadian Film Awards competition held last April, "Family Circles" was judged the best non-theatrical film in Canada. It was also acclaimed by critics of documentary films entered in the Edinburgh Festival.

Showing four homes and sets of conditions in which the child is aided or hindered by its parents, it will prove a thought-provoking and influential experience to all adults who see it.

48 Families Leave Camp At Gordon Head

Since Aug. 8 when 76 families received notice to vacate premises at Gordon Head Camp, 48 have located other accommodation and moved.

A. Palmer, executive secretary of Citizens' Rehabilitation Council of Greater Victoria, which decided to cease operation of the camp as emergency shelter on Sept. 30, recommended in a letter to the city today that the buildings be returned to Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

There is only one family left in each of ten buildings.

"Every week we get notice of more who have found places of their own," Mr. Palmer said.

He asked permission to release any building at Gordon Head and Macaulay Camps as soon as it becomes vacant. Seven buildings have become vacant at Gordon Head and two at Macaulay.

The Rehabilitation Council has asked for "blanket authority" to expedite the turnover of buildings to Central Mortgage.

BETTER SHOW OF FLOWERS FOR BASKETS

A change of material and daily rather than thrice-weekly watering are planned for Victoria's widely-publicized hanging flower baskets. W. H. Warren, parks superintendent said today.

Approximately 600 baskets were removed from city street Sunday night.

"We were rather disappointed in the show this year," said Mr. Warren. "The weather in the early part of the season was not too conducive to over-all growth."

"We found the viscaria, an annual flower, which gives the pink effect, grew rampant and smothered some of the other materials."

It is also planned to use a non-seeding type of nasturtium.

Jail Hanging To Be Probed

Inquest on the second man to hang himself in the city jail in 20 years, will be held Tuesday morning at 10 at Sands to probe the death of Frank Douglas Smith, 32, of Vancouver and Winnipeg.

Arrested on a charge of drunkenness he was found dead, hanged by his own necktie in the cell at the jail early Saturday morning. A Chinese hanged himself with his belt in the jail more than 20 years ago.

Lunar Eclipse Visible Tonight If Clouds Absent

A lunar eclipse will be seen at 7:45 tonight if clouds do not block the phenomenon from view.

Officials of the Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Heights said cloudy weather might obscure the eclipse, which will begin at 6:32 this evening.

While many star-gazers will be disappointed if they do not see the darkening of the moon's surface, astronomers say the eclipse is of little value for astronomical research.

The eclipse occurs when the moon moves through the shadow of the earth. It loses its bright, direct illumination by the sun, although its disc remains fairly visible. A lunar eclipse can occur only at the time of full moon, that is when the position of the moon is opposite to that of the sun.

Judge Brands Trial As 'Unsatisfactory'

Woman Lawyer Claims Man Denied Right Of Counsel By Magistrate

The Saanich police court trial of Anthony Gibbons, convicted of assault before Magistrate A. I. Thomas, was described as "unsatisfactory" by the B.C. Court of Appeal today.

The court allowed the appeal and quashed the conviction against Gibbons who had been found guilty of assaulting his wife and who served 30 days in jail.

"Without going into details, we find the trial unsatisfactory," said Chief Justice Gordon M. Sloan in handing down judgment from the bench.

Mrs. C. A. Sutherland, representing the appellant in Appeal Court, described the way the magistrate's court had conducted its case against Gibbons as "scandalous."

The lawyer charged that Magistrate Thomas had denied Gibbons the right of counsel and had improperly refused to grant him bail.

NO CROSS-EXAMINATION

Gibbons was also denied the right of cross-examination, Mrs. Sutherland claimed.

"I don't think I have heard anything more scandalous in my life," said the woman lawyer. "He was never given a chance to defend himself."

She charged Magistrate Thomas with opening a trial with "an unbecoming conviction" that Gibbons was guilty from the very start.

She also held that Saanich prosecutor Claude Harrison was unfair in his questions to the accused.

"I am of the opinion that the stipendiary magistrate was biased and formed his opinion without having heard what each party and witnesses had to say," Mrs. Sutherland said.

She pointed out that Gibbons had never appeared in his life before a court of law.

She pointed out that, when Gibbons asked for bail, he was told by Magistrate Thomas that he was going down to "the lock-up where he belonged."

TRIED TO EXPLAIN

Gibbons tried to explain in court that the cause of the quarrel was due to religious differences between himself and his wife, Mrs. Sutherland said. "His wife was Protestant and he was a Catholic."

"The court refused to listen to his story," she said.

W. C. Moresby, K.C., acting as counsel for the Crown, said he felt that the accused had tried to evade giving direct evidence in court.

Mr. Moresby was cut short by Justice C. H. O'Halloran. "He (Gibbons) seems to have had no opportunity to secure a lawyer," His Lordship said.

Mr. Justice H. L. Bird added: "What possible reason can be shown for refusing the man bail."

When Mr. Moresby continued to speak in defence of the Crown, Mr. Justice O'Halloran said jokingly: "You would have had a wonderful time in this case if you had been acting for the defence, Mr. Moresby."

In handing down judgment the court ordered a new trial before another magistrate.

$7,000 Bill For Arena Roof Work

Repairs to a portion of the barrel roof of Memorial Arena are expected to be completed the end of this week. Ald. Frank G. Mulliner, chairman of the arena committee said today, on his return from the U.B.C.M. convention at Nelson.

"I am very satisfied with the progress of work to date," he said. "The contractors are giving us a 52-foot covering instead of the 50 as stated in the contract."

The repairs will cost the city approximately $7,000.

Chinese Says He Did Not See Liquor

Lee Chun, proprietor of the C.A.C. Gardens, 550 Fisgard Street, was remanded to Wednesday for judgment by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today on a charge of suffering a person to have liquor in the cafe on Aug. 28.

Through interpreter Jack Yip, Lee told the court he had only been in the cafe two minutes before Sgt. Ray Maitland and the other officer appeared on the scene and that he had not seen glasses on a table and a bottle of whisky under the same table.

E. E. Pearlman is defence counsel.

Penny Seeing Double
But Glasses Won't Help!

By PENNY SAVER

Faith and begorrah, if I didn't run head-on into my double this morning! You might say, gad, what a horrible way to go, or it might prompt a Riley phrase: "What a revolting development that must have been!" Neither would be the case, because she, as the versatile femme, will double for anyone from a petite size 10 to a size 50 without batting an eyelash. . . . She hasn't an eyelash on her headless body, but then don't let that faze you.

She's the latest in dress forms . . . as you've probably fathomed by now . . . and is out to offer the feminine population their greatest opportunity to perfect the home-made garment. The new model is as pliable as putty, in that

If you're the slender-as-a-willow type and think the wire form would overlap, remedy the situation by pulling the mesh form longer in length. The procedure is vice versa, if you are enjoying a few extra pounds.

Oh, yes, the price! If you're not the home-made clothes enthusiast or not likely to be, ignore this price of $39.50, and if you are interested, you're probably on your way to town this very minute!

Well, what do you know? A few more makers of foot warmers . . . slippers, that is . . . have thought to put comfy-cozy sheep's wool inside the slipper instead of trimming its exterior. The wooly "flats" I saw were as inviting as a piping hot bowl of soup on a dull day, and were being wrapped up for the sum of $1.69 a pair. You'll find them in small, medium and large sizes featuring leather soles and metal arch supports.

Noticed 29-cent shoe polishers made of the same fluffy-type wool. They're there if you look!

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Adopted Girl Woos Foster Uncle's Love,
Saying Wife Doesn't Need Him

Dear Mary Haworth: Recently you gave a friend of mine such excellent help in handling a problem that I have decided to ask your advice in a delicate matter. Last spring my husband and I spent two weeks with his sister and her husband and their adopted daughter, Paula, 18. My husband and the others did some fishing while I took care of Ada, who had just undergone a serious operation.

When we returned home I was surprised when John told me that his adopted niece had developed a crush on him, and that he'd had an embarrassing time of it, trying to squelch her and make sure her parents didn't discover her infatuation, as it would have upset them both, and particularly his sister profoundly. I suggested to John that perhaps he had misunderstood the meaning of Paula's enthusiasm for Mary Haworth her fairly young and charming uncle. For answer, he took from his pocket a letter he had received from her, addressed to his office, the day we got back.

Here is an excerpt from her letter: "It may seem strange to you, but I am not really so young as you believe. I am old beyond my years and I have waited for someone like you since I was only a child. You said that I was only confused and had much growing up to do, and that the 'idea' I have about you is only my imagination. But that is not true; and it is not as if your wife needs you, my blessed. She is wholly capable of continuing the career you took her out of—such a different sort of thing from your exciting work! And I could give you a wonderful family, and you know she can't. Oh, yes, I heard the folks saying so."

MAN IS FURIOUS
WIFE IS TOLERANT
John is a serious person, a really fine man with very little nonsense about him, and he was furious at her audacity. He wanted to hurt her into a realization of the folly she is capable of, but I asked him to ignore the whole thing, which he did.

Now I have a charming letter from Ada, asking me to take Paula into our home this winter, all plans having been made for Paula to attend a local college, prior to consulting us. Surely I can't have her here? John and I are happy together, nicely settled in the community and have gained by hard work the kind of life we love. I realize we cannot live entirely for ourselves, and we don't; but wouldn't it be sheer destruction to introduce a determined troublemaker into our midst?

UNABASHED EVIL
IN HER ATTITUDE
Dear E.B.: In one sense at least Paula is "old beyond her years."

To quote the folk saying, she is "As old as sin" in her huntress technique. There is an unabashed evil quality about her tireless campaign to seduce your husband away from you, and it seems she thinks sexuality reigns triumphant over all other values in human relationship. In self-confidently proclaiming the "wonderful family" she could give John, she is trying to captivate his mind with erotic phantasies, while also ruthlessly knitting you for being childless—which is a cunning double play to cut you out.

Paula is a bad egg, obviously, and it would be interesting to know her lineal background to see if she is the byproduct of lawless wanton suggestion. The possibility is suggested by her

POSITIVE STANDING
SEEMS NECESSARY

Certainly you'd be a fool to let Paula crash in as star boarder, to get at John as she intends, with the backing of her duped parents. It's no use crying over yesterday's mistakes. I suppose: but you should have endorsed John's wish to slap her down last spring. No doubt you thought you were being "big," above jealousy and that sort of thing; but actually his attitude was finer, in that it was realistic as well as ethical.

I think my advice at that time would have been for you to suavely lance Paula's presumption (with John's consent), by writing her to say he'd ask you to cope with the family mail since her letter reached his office the other day; that you'd found the contents amusing, as he had; that you hoped her mother was steadily improving, that you and John sent regards to her parents, etc. And the note should have closed with a line in John's handwriting to show he'd co-authored it—as for instance, "Edith (meaning you) insists I add a postscript; so, help out there; and how's the fishing?"

As matters stand, I feel John should write his sister at once, saying briefly that he is taking the decision out of your hands, and he is ruling against having Paula spend the winter in your home; and that she had better make other arrangements accordingly. Or if he won't "front" on that score, you should block her with equal terseness. And if her parents press for an explanation, give them the facts as stated here. They're old enough to take the truth.

IN COMMUNITY HALL

South Vancouver Island
Institutes Confer At Sooke

In addition to usual institute business, talks will be given by Mrs. S. E. Gummov, superintendent of B.C. Women's Institutes; Miss Constance Hayward, Department of Citizenship, Ottawa, and Mrs. A. A. Shaw, vice-president, Provincial Board. Mrs. E. G. Gibson, president of the District Board, will preside.

Panel discussion groups have also been arranged so that delegates may have the opportunity of sitting in with the group discussing the institute topic of their preference.

Of interest to all will be displays of handcraft gathered by several of the institutes. Lunch will be provided by the hostess institute and bus transportation from larger centres is being arranged by the district board.

Mother And Daughter Win
Highland Championships

Returning to Victoria this week with an impressive list of Highland dancing championships are Adeline Grant Duncan and her 12-year-old daughter, Heather.

The well-known mother and daughter carried off top honors at five Highland gatherings on a tour of approximately 9,000 miles which took them through eastern Canada and United States.

Mrs. Duncan was awarded the Atlantic Coast Championship for winning the Lewis Graham Memorial Trophy, and $100 in prize money at Boston, Mass., in the professional class, competing against three champion dancers. While competing at Buffalo she missed the Grand Aggregate by one point to her pupil, Mavis Manser, who accompanied Mrs. Duncan and Heather on their trip.

Mrs. Duncan was unable to compete at other gatherings because of an injury to her leg.

Heather returns home with three champion trophies and 14 medals.

There was no aggregate at Toronto National Exhibition, but if there had been, Heather would have captured it with her three firsts and one second prize. The young dancer won the Boston Junior Championship Trophy with five firsts, and at Syracuse, N.Y., the junior championship with four firsts and one second. At Buffalo, N.Y., she won the Currier Express Championship Trophy with four firsts.

Miss Manser, who is now at University of British Columbia,

Jewel Tones Of Fall Exquisite Foil For Bride In Bouffant Tulle, Satin

A symphony of fall colorings in sea foam velvet gowns worn by her three attendants, in cascaded bouquets of gold and bronze chrysanthemums they held in their arms, and in traditionally beautiful harvest decorations in the church, created an effective and seasonal color foil for a lovely bride in nylon tulle over satin.

The slender, fair-haired bride was Miss Shirley Wray Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Campbell, 1960 Beach Drive, and her groom, Alexander Murray Davidson, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Davidson, came from Vancouver for the service.

Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunn, officiated at the 8 o'clock service Saturday evening in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay. James Gerry was organist and Mrs. Stanley Moore sang "O Perfect Love." Twenty yards of dazzling white nylon tulle and shimmering satin created the bouffant hoop skirt, slightly in train, gathered to the tiny waist of the wedding gown. Exquisite Chantilly lace fashioned a Bertha-like decollete yoked in nylon.

Drifting clouds of illusion net in her finger-tip veil were bound to a dainty poke bonnet of Chantilly lace, and the bride held gardenias and stephanotis arranged in a round bouquet.

Mrs. G. Hall, Vancouver, sister of the groom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Gloria Davies and June Rawlinson.

In seafoam velvet, their identical gowns were styled with Bertha collars and slender skirts with back fullness. Bridesmaids wore small velvet hats touched with bronze veiling. The matron of honor wore a dainty bonnet in seafoam velvet, the narrow brim edged with tiny flowers.

Little Susan Whittington was frocked in white point d'esprit net over satin for her role as flower girl. She wore a wreath of sweetheart roses in her hair, and carried a posy of similar blossoms.

Gordon McConachie, Vancouver, was best man. Ushers Ken Ross and Robert McKay are also of Vancouver.

At a reception at the Campbell home, guests were welcomed by the newlyweds assisted by their mothers. Mrs. Campbell wore a floor-length crepe gown in shades of roses, with velvet hat en tone, and Mrs. Davidson's formal ensemble was in deep blue. A three-tier cake was cut by the newlyweds.

For the wedding cruise to Alaska aboard the Ss. Prince George, the bride donned an ice blue suit, complemented with deep brown accessories. Her corsage bouquet was a white orchid. Mr. and Mrs. Davidson will make their home at Avon Court, Vancouver Street.

Mr. And Mrs. Neil Butler On Southern Honeymoon

San Francisco and Los Angeles are on the honeymoon itinerary of Neil Broughton Butler and his bride, the former Marjorie Jean Fraser.

They were married Saturday afternoon in St. John's Anglican Church, before an autumn setting created with colorful gladioli and chrysanthemums. Canon George Biddle officiated at the double-ring service.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. A. V. Fraser, 1661 Hollywood Crescent, was given in marriage by Jack Ashkan. George Butler was best man for his brother, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Butler, 903 Bank Street, and ushers were Harold Butler and Jack Martin.

The delicate hues in the costumes worn by her three attendants were a lovely foil for the bride in lustrous white satin. Created on long, flowing lines, the bridal gown had lace-edged skirts ruffled at the hem to reveal tiers of lace, and ended in a long, lace-bordered train.

A coronet of pearls held her shimmering veil, and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses, lily of the valley and heather. She wore necklace and earrings of pearls for her "something borrowed."

Matron of honor, Mrs. Jack Ashkan, wore a period gown of lemon yellow net mounted over taffeta. She carried mauve gladioli and white asters. Miss Margaret Mauger and Miss Lesley Snelgrove had similar gowns in blue net over taffeta, and carried arm bouquets of pale pink gladioli and white asters.

Mrs. T. Turnbull sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by F. Chubb at the organ.

As the wedding party left the church, the groom's lodge brothers of the Fraternal Order of Eagles formed an honor guard.

Guests were received in Terry's Rose Room. Mrs. Fraser, who wore mink cape and black accessories with her turquoise afternoon dress, and Mrs. Butler, attired in a dove-grey ensemble with deep blue accessories, assisted the newlyweds. Mr. Ashkan proposed the toast, and a three-tier cake was cut.

For the wedding trip, the bride wore a three-piece ensemble in British Tan and off-white gabardine. Her osprey feather cloche, trimmed with veiling, repeated the tones, and she wore Talisman roses and lily of the valley en corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler will live at 1750 Rockland Avenue.

An Eighth Birthday Banquet

Informality was keynote of the 8th W.R.C.N.S. birthday banquet held recently in Terry's Rose Room, with 65 members and guests present.

Special guests were Capt. R. Jackson, R.C.N., honorary president of the local association, and Mrs. Jackson; Mr. and Mrs. L. Fieldhouse, Mr. and Mrs. S. Norman, Rev. Wm. Hills and Arnold Palmer.

Ann Leggott presided, and contributed a nostalgic reading, "First Week at Galt" to the evening's program. Highlights of the first dominion-wide re-union held in August at Toronto were given in informal talks by Dorothy Brooker, Jean Wilkinson and Kay Mathews.

Novel place cards were designed by Myrtle Trotter and Helen Talbot. The decorated birthday cake with eight candles was cut by Mrs. Norman, president, Women's Auxiliary, Naval Veterans' Legion Branch. Gladioli decorating the tables, were from Mary Miles. Remainder of the cake was later taken to the Veterans' Hospital.

Attending from out of town were: Jean Davidson, Gerry Frego, Beth Slater, Cynthia Llewellyn, Eleanor Steel, Mary Moffat, Dorothy Wheelton Forbes, and Connie Nottter Carter, all of Vancouver; Mae Dundas, New Westminster, and Beryl McManus, Gordon, Saskatchewan.

Young People Fulfill Goal At Meetings

Carrying out principles of the Anglican Young People's Association, of work, worship, fellowship and education, Christ Church Cathedral branch has held three gatherings following their opening banquet.

Sunday, Sept. 17, more than 30 members attended communion service in the Cathedral, then gathered for a corporate breakfast of pancakes served in Memorial Hall by Miss Grace Solly and Miss Olive Cook.

That evening, during evensong, Dean G. R. Calvert installed the new executive: Rev. E. J. Hulford, chaplain; Miss Jacqueline Johnston, president; Walter Pickering, vice-president; Miss Mary Bell, secretary, and Gregory Harvey, treasurer. Mr. Pickering was also installed as treasurer of Victoria Deacons' Council of the A.Y.P.A.

Third principle of edification was dealt with by Hon. Nancy Hodges, Speaker of the B.C. Legislature, who talked to the young people Wednesday. Mrs. Hodges, whose topic was on parliamentary procedure, explained its value in Legislative Assembly. Told many of its amusing peculiarities, then asked members for questions concerning their difficulties. Following question period, the speaker was thanked by Rev. E. J. Hulford. Refreshments were served.

Work, the fourth principle, was amply filled by preparation and clean-up committees on all occasions.

Parents' Home Setting For Mavis Guy's Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Frederick John Wiseman, who were married Saturday evening, are motoring through Washington and Oregon to San Francisco where they will spend several days.

The bride, the former Mavis Guy, and groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Wiseman, 1900 Newton Street, exchanged their vows in a ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Guy, 897 Oliver Street.

Rev. W. W. McPherson officiated. Tall baskets of pastel-hued blossoms decorated the room, and fall flowers and ivy were wreathed around the windows, to create the setting.

Mrs. S. Bartlett sang "I Love Thee" for the newlyweds.

French blue lace posed over blue satin, the very full skirt swirling to ankle-length, was worn by the bride. Rosettes trimmed the three-quarter-length sleeves, and sweetheart neckline finishing the slender bodice, and were repeated on the full skirt.

She wore a matching headpiece of lace over satin and lace gloves. In the Colonial bouquet were carnations and sweet peas.

Miss Eileen Mulcahy attended her cousin in a navy blue silk frock. She had blush pink accessories, and held a Colonial bouquet of gladioli and Shasta daisies.

E. Bradley was best man. During the reception, a three-tier cake, topped with a small basket of pink rosebuds and fern, was cut by the newlyweds.

Crystal swans containing pink rosebuds decorated the lace-cloth-covered table, encircled with tiny blossoms. J. Waselechnuk proposed the toast.

The bride wore Russian squirrel neckpiece with her grey wool tailored suit, grey straw hat, and matching suede gloves, for traveling. Her shoes and purse were in contrasting red.

On return, Mr. and Mrs. Wiseman will live at Lee-Oakes Apartments.

A German workman, one of those engaged in demolishing the war-wrecked Royal Castle in the Soviet sector of Berlin, looks over the heads of some of the statues that decorated the 200-year-old mansion. ## Australia May Import 40,000 Houses A Year

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—The housing mission just returned from Europe reported to import 40,000 prefabricated houses a year from the end of next year.

Revealing this the minister for national development, Richard C. Casey, said the work of the mission would be of the utmost value to all Australian governments.

Mr. Casey said other important conclusions which the mission had reached were:

- (1) A number of building firms in the United Kingdom and on the continent would supply and erect houses complete with foundations, paths, fences and drainage.
- (2) A number of firms would undertake site preparation work, including engineering services.
- (3) Australian housing authorities considered the price of houses from abroad acceptable.

The report emphasized the need for comprehensive site preparations well in advance of the arrival of houses from abroad.

That was regarded as of prime importance to the success of any realistic attempt to meet Australia's housing needs, Mr. Casey said.

The mission found there were probably at least half a dozen reputable organizations in the United Kingdom with overseas experience capable of undertaking major building work.

One such firm had already written, stating its intention to start a branch in Australia if it could get an initial contract. It intended to remain here to build houses other than prefabricated homes, and later to erect other buildings, as well as prepare sites for buildings.

Politicians' Views Divide On Britain's 1951 Festival

Some Say It Will Be Good For Country But Others Say Outlays Not Justified

LONDON (CP)—Something spectacular is going to take place in Britain next year, but whether it will be good or bad for the country.

From May to September, 1951, this tight little island will officially and somewhat self-consciously signal its peacetime recovery with a project known as the Festival of Britain. At least £10,000,000 ($31,000,000) will be spent.

The centrepiece will be a 30-acre site in London, a stone's throw from Waterloo Bridge, at a cost reported to be £6,000,000. This will tell Britain's story in various kinds of exhibits.

A mile or so up the Thames will be a pleasure garden in Battersea Park with 37 acres devoted to open-air cafes, fireworks, fun fairs and, says an official announcement, "all sorts of entertainments." Special river craft will link the two sites.

In the badly-bombed East End, in the heart of teeming dockland, there will be a £1,600,000 development scheme eventually to be named Lansbury, after the late George Lansbury, a celebrated Labor leader. Visitors will see apartments, houses, maisonettes, schools and a shopping centre forming what is called the "live architecture" section of the exhibition.

Special attractions are planned by cities, towns and villages throughout Britain. Two traveling "Exhibitions in Miniature" will cost £830,000.

Today, less than a year before its scheduled opening, the south-bank site is a shambles of skeleton buildings.

By next year, the show may become a first-class political controversy. The Conservatives claim it is a fantastically extravagant idea at a time of relative impoverishment.

Other complaints are that the festival buildings "drink" cement, while private builders can't get any; that the south-bank site is only about one-sixth of the size of Britain's great exhibition of 1851, and therefore it won't have room for all who want to see it; and that vast traffic jams in the centre of the city will be inevitable if the show catches on with the public.

Gen. Lord Ismay, chairman of the Festival council, admits he has met problems as tough as any he encountered in helping to plan the invasion of Normandy during the Second World War. But the work goes on.

Iraq Jews Moving To Israel Lose Big Sums

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Some of the wealthiest Jews in the world, straight out of the legendary site of the Garden of Eden, are flocking into Israel, practically "dead broke."

Jews from Iraq "are arriving in Israel at the rate of 8,000 to 10,000 monthly. A total of 120,000 may come within the next 16 or 18 months. They are forced to leave behind homes and business holdings valued at hundreds of millions of dollars.

These people from the Biblical cradle of the human race arrive in Israel with about 60 pounds of personal baggage and the equivalent of about $15.

These Jews are abandoning outright or selling for virtually nothing properties built up in one of the oldest (2,600 years) and richest communities in the world. Immigration agencies have estimated the value of properties in Iraq of 30,000 Jewish families alone at 16,000,000 dinars. A dinar is worth $3.10.

There are 100 families with fortunes of 150,000 dinars each; 50 families are registered with properties worth 300,000 dinars each. Much of their wealth is in homes, schools, synagogues and business properties.

Leaving this wealth behind doesn't seem to disturb the incoming Iraqi immigrant. He

In a hurry for the Iraqi government has set a time limit on the registration for those who want to come to Israel.

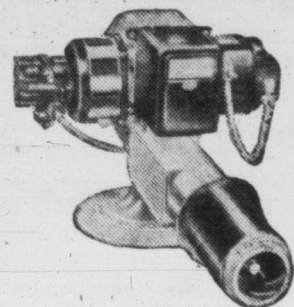

It is an unusual operation, for Israel still is technically at war with Iraq.

The Iraqis require planes loaded with Jews to clear for Nicosia, Cyprus. Then the aircraft have to turn around fly over to Israel. It is an expensive operation, for by going first to Cyprus the planes fly a 400-mile detour.

The flow of the Iraqi Jews increases still further the tremendous job of the Israeli government in finding places for immigrants to live and provide them jobs.

The venture is known as the Automobile Rally from the Mediterranean to the Cape of Good Hope. The route leads through Algeria, French West Africa, Nigeria, French Equatorial Africa, the Belgian Congo, Kenya, Tanganyika, Rhodesia and the Union of South Africa.

The trip is open to anyone who can convince the organizers he has a good chance to complete the journey. The people in charge don't want to get stuck with any over-age cars that might break down in the middle of the Sahara. Neither do they want any Sunday drivers who wouldn't know how to change a tire or replace a light bulb.

The tour is being organized by the Automobile Club of Algiers and an organization known as the "Friends of the Sahara."

The purpose of the organizers is to promote tourism. Actually the same route has been traversed many times by adventurous tourists familiar with the region.

There are no filling stations along the road. Hotels are scarce and primitive. At several stops there simply aren't any hotels and in these places arrangements are being made for the travelers to stay overnight in the homes of Europeans living there.

Many of the roads, especially in the northern and central part of the continent, are of dirt but easily passable. Across the Sahara, there are no roads—only limitless sands with high pylons to guide the drivers. On the southern half of the trip many of the roads are paved. Depending on the route taken, the course varies between 9,000 and 9,600 miles. The schedule has been made up to cover 40 days of driving with five days of rest interspersed.

An estimate of $1,550 has been made for the expenses each driver should figure on. Passengers will get by for about half that much.

Then there's the problem of getting back from Capetown. The route could be retraced by auto, but the organizers believe most of the participants will sell their cars and return by ship or air.

The start has been set for Nov. 17.

You will be delighted with this fragrant tea

Toronto Sees Maid Of Mist Lovers Reunited

TORONTO (CP)—Two sweet hearts from Czechoslovakia—the Maid of the Mist lovers—were reunited during the week-end after being kept apart for more than a year by immigration rules.

Kitty Kleiner, 24, finally reached Toronto from the United States to enroll in the University of Toronto's school of social work. She was embraced on her arrival by Denis Chrastansky, 25, who has been in Canada since 1948. They had been sweethearts in Czechoslovakia and hope to be married by Christmas.

Last September, while Kitty was studying in the United States on a student visa, the couple met briefly on the bridge spanning the international boundary at Niagara Falls. They held a tryst on the sightseeing craft Maid of the Mist as it piled up and down the river below the falls.

Denis lacked permission to enter the United States and Kitty could not come into Canada until she obtained a Canadian student visa.

Chinese Reds Say U.S. Plans New Aggression

LONDON (UP)—Communist China protested to the United Nations today that the United States is determined to "extend the aggressive war against Korea, carry out armed aggression in Formosa and extend her aggression against China."

The note charged that American planes dropped 12 bombs on the Manchurian city of Antung Sept. 22. It demanded that the question of "the invasion of China's territorial air by military airplanes" be put on the U.N. General Assembly's agenda and that a Chinese Communist representative be permitted to take part in the discussion.

The protest warned the United Nations that if a majority of its members continued to support American intervention in Korea, they shall not escape a share in the responsibility for lighting up war flames in the East.

"The peace-loving peoples all over the world definitely will not stand in the face of this with folded arms," the note said. But it gave no indication of just what the "peace-loving peoples"—presumably Communists and fellow-travelers—intended to do about it.

The protest note was broadcast by the New China News Agency from Peiping and monitored here. It was signed by Foreign Minister Chou En-lai and addressed to U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie for transmission to Nasrallah Entezam, president of the 5th session of the General Assembly, and Sir Gladwyn Jebb, president of the Security Council.

YANKS, PHILS STRETCH LEAD IN FLAG RACE

Brooklyn, Red Sox Also Maintain Pace

BOSTON (AP)—Philadelphia edged a step closer to the National League pennant today by blistering Warren Spahn and four successors for 18 hits in a 12-4 rout of Boston in the opener of a double-header.

Lefty Ken Heintzelman weakened in the late innings but went the route for the first time since June 29 as the Phils snapped out of a slump.

First Game—R. H. H. Philadelphia 12 18 4 Boston 4 11 3

Heintzelman and Seminick; Spahn, Roy (1), Hall (4), Cole (3), Donovan (3) and Crandall.

Second Game—R. H. H. Philadelphia 12 18 4 Boston 4 11 3

Heintzelman and Seminick; Spahn, Roy (1), Hall (4), Cole (3), Donovan (3) and Crandall.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The oldest press box inhabitants couldn't remember when it happened to Boston Red Sox pitchers before, as they turned in a doubleheader shut-out today in beating the Philadelphia Athletics 3 to 0 and 3 to 0 to keep their American League pennant hopes mathematically alive. Lefty Mel Parnell spun a five-hitter in the opener and Harry Taylor, rejuvenated former National Leaguer, pitched two-hit ball for the Sox in the nightcap.

BROOKLYN (AP)—Peewee Reese's 10th home run in the fourth inning provided the one-run margin Brooklyn Dodgers needed to defeat New York Giants 3 to 2 today in the first game of a day-night doubleheader.

Preacher Roe held the Giants in check until the ninth when they scored two runs. It was Roe's 19th victory of the season.

First Game—R. H. H. Brooklyn 3 7 2 New York 2 6 1

Roe, Spencer (8) and Westrum; Roe and Campanella.

Rain Bringing Some Help In Forest Fires

EDMONTON (CP)—Rain fell today in many parts of fire-ravaged northern British Columbia and Alberta, bringing some relief from the blazes reported sweeping forests in the area.

At Grande Prairie, half an inch of rain fell in a morning storm. Less fell at other points. Light rain was reported later today around Fort St. John in northern British Columbia, where the worst fires rage.

An air force officer counted 60 fires in a 300-mile stretch of largely-unsettled country. He estimated the largest as 120 miles wide by 125 miles long. The other fires are in Alberta.

RENTAL TRIAL

Trial of Frances Ryan, charged on four counts under the Wartime Leasehold Regulations, was remanded to Oct. 29 in city police court today. Counsel J. J. Proudfoot has pleaded not guilty to all charges. J. A. Byers is Crown counsel.

In The Hands Of The Enemy

From behind Communist lines comes this picture of American prisoners in a North Korean P.O.W. camp near Pyongyang. The caption, supplied with the photo by Eastfoto, a Soviet agency, says that bearded Maj. John J. Dunn (foreground, third from left) talks to a Communist guard, backed by fellow American prisoners. Maj. Dunn is identified as one of the Americans who allegedly signed a message to the U.N. asking that the U.S. withdraw from Korea. (Eastfoto by NEA Telephoto)
